MISCELLANEOUS.

DUBLIN HAY AND STRAW.—The attendance of buyers was much the same as last day, with one or two more dairymen operating. Trade was slightly freer on the smaller supply to-day at 90s. Prices, however, showed little improvement, this being due to the poor quality of most arrivals. Secondary and inferior classes not wanted, and no reasonable offer refused to clear. Prime 1st crop, 3/6 to 4/- per cwt.; 2nd and 3rd crop, 3/- to 3/3; old meadow, generally 2/6 to 3/-, very fancy a few pence more; inferior sorts, 1/3 to 2/3. Straw supply much larger than last day, which proved in excess of fair trade passing, particularly oaten, many loads being on hands at late hour, when prices were in buyers' favour at: Best, 2/9 to 3/3 per cwt.; inferior sorts, 2/3 to 2/6; wheaten slower at 3/3 to 4/- per cwt., according to quality and time of arrival.

At the wool sale held at Sydney yesterday the offerings totalled 11,281 bales, of which 10,875 were sold. Private sales consisted of 2,425 bales. There was a good selection. IRISH HOPES DASHED.

BETTER BUSINESS NOT LIKELY.

CREAMERY BUTTER TRADE HOPES.

BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

"As a result of Denmark following Britain off the gold standard, Free State agriculture is in relatively no better a position than it was before the financial crisis, stated Mr. John P. Colbert, managing director of the Free State Agricultural Credits Corporation, in an interview with me yesterday.

"On the other hand," he said, "had Denmark remained on the gold standard, the Free State would have had a considerable advantage over her—about twenty-five per cent. And it is possible to take it that the departure from the gold standard and the clinging to sterling was deliberate. Some of the farmers and the co-operative organisations had pointed out to the Government the very serious effects that would follow if they did not go off. The technical position of the exchange did not warrant it."

DENMARK'S GOLD HOLDING.

In support of this statement, Mr. Colbert pointed out that on August 31st, 1931, the National Bank of Denmark held in gold between fifty and sixty per cent. of the value of the note circulation, which put them in a strong position.

A similar view was expressed by a representative of Messrs Carton Brothers, Limited, wholesale butter and egg dealers, who stated that the financial situation was not likely to result in any change, although there might have been some improvement had Denmark remained on the gold standard. Any fluctuations that might take place now in prices, he observed, would be the ordinary seasonal ones.

THE BUTTER TRADE.

BETTER PRICES EXPECTED.

I was informed, however, by Mr. Semple, Secretary to the Irish Creamery Managers' Association, that a steady improvement in the price of butter was expected.

"Markets have already advanced about four shillings a hundredweight," he said, "and we expect that in the course of a month Irish creamery butter will be at the 130s. a hundredweight, delivered at the British markets. There will be no spectacular advance, as the quantity being exported to Britain from the colonies is extremely large."

With regard to the Danish situation, Mr. Semple said that, while it would have some reactions, these would be very slight.

"Had Britain not gone off the gold standard," he said, "I think that commodity prices in England would have slumped still farther, but markets are very firm to-day. To my mind, this has been a boon to the Irish farmer."

A "Soccer" Recruit.

I am interested to hear of the latest capture made by the Bohemians, Dublin's famous amateur "soccer" team. He is Mr. W. B. Goulding, and is the son of Sir William Lingard Goulding, the well-known Irish polo player and director of the Bank of Ireland. Mr. Goulding should be a creditable addition to the ranks of the "Bohs.," for last year he was captain of the Oxford University eleven. He has also, I am told, played for Corinthians, the outstanding English amateurs, and, as he is only twenty-two years of age, he should have some years of football before him. He is not the only ex-Corinthian who has recently joined up with an Irish club; for Mr. J. R. D. Shearer, who joined Derry City some weeks ago, is another. Mr. Shearer has had the distinction in his last two matches for Derry of performing the hat-trick on both occasions. That, however, can hardly be expected of Mr. Goulding; for he is a full-back and Mr. Shearer a forward.

Sleeping It Out.

Many people have shared Mr. Gandhi's experience of "sleeping it out" because of an alarum clock that did not alarm. Usually the reason is overnight forgetfulness, but several persons of my acquaintance have told me what seems to point to the existence of an anti-alarum complex. Those whose nerves are fine-strung find the sudden blare at the bedhead almost intolerable, and they habitually awake before time to prevent the ringing. This is well enough, but when the complex gets full control the individual is apt to succumb to a sort of partial somnambulism, rising during the night and switching off the lever control. When late morning comes he cannot imagine how it happened that the alarum that was set overnight is put out of action. Almost equally disconcerting is it when an alarum is set but not run off, and the control, jerked out during the morning's dusting, releases the clapper quite unexpectedly twelve hours later. An incident of this kind in my knowledge resulted in a frenzied telephone appeal to the police by the solitary occupant of the house, so reversing the rôle played by the alarum clock in Ambrose Applejohn's Adventure, when the ringing is mistaken for that of a telephone to the complete discomfiture of the crooks.

Holiday Forgetfulness.

This is the time of year when holiday boarding-house keepers begin to add to their already garnered harvest the collection of strange articles left behind by their late guests. Love letters and pawn tickets might, perhaps, be expected, but I see that a Brighton landlady has just stated that amongst the fifty articles she discovered during the past season were a complete suit of clothes and a cage containing six white mice. There is a seaside hotel not very far from Dublin, the proprietor of which tells me that the things left in his possession over the last three or four months included ten love letters, fifteen collar studs, two wedding rings, four dress waistcoats, ten pairs of women's shoes, and five pairs of pyjamas. One of the strange things about this was, he said, that few people, comparatively, took the trouble to write for their property. Apart from items of jewellery, they seem hardly to have been remembered.

An Old Clock.

A friend who has just returned from a roaming holiday tells me that he has seen, in the north transept of Exeter Cathedral, what is claimed to be the oldest clock in these islands. It was mentioned in the Patent Rolls of 1317, but how many years before that date the clock was in existence it would be difficult to say. Its original mechanism, too, must remain a matter for conjecture, as the works have been renewed on several occasions, and a number of other alterations have been made. My friend could not tell me the precise nature of the alterations, which was a pity, as it would be interesting to compare the clock with that in Derry which I mentioned some days ago. Perhaps, my readers there will claim that the alterations were so complete that nothing of the original Exeter clock now survives.

Costly Motoring.

According to an analysis made by the American Bureau of Census, one dollar out of every five spent in retail shops of the United States is spent on motor-cars and their accessories. Only one other commodity manages to get ahead of the motor car, and that is food. The figures refer to the year 1929, and, as food is not far ahead of motor cars for that year, it would be extremely interesting to know whether food or cars have suffered in the trade slump. It was Henry Ford who gave America the alternative: "Your choice is between liquor and automobiles"; and how the choice was made is now history. What has America done when faced with the alternative "food or automobiles?" How badly cigars fare is shown by the fact that only 0.83 per cent. of income goes to them. Yet the most startling result of the analysis is that Americans spent only a dollar a head on newspapers in 1929, or less than a penny a week. European expenditure easily beats this, and I find it hard to understand the great American circulation figures.

Falling Leaves.

The frost of the last few nights has turned most of the leaves to their lovely autumnal tints, and the leaves on many trees have fallen sufficiently to show us once again the outline of their branches. Yesterday I was tasting again the youthful joy of shuffling through crackling leaves, when I was reminded of a childish belief told me by an old Scotch nanny. If you were able to catch a falling leaf, it would be sure to bring you a year's good luck. Of course, the more elusive the leaf, the better the luck, and I can well remember how hard it was, on even quite a calm day, for my two small hands to capture one or two years' good luck.

The Critics Confounded.

The seat of the critic is thorny, and men of letters deem it no shame to set in addition, as it were, drawing-pins for him to sit on. I was present a little while ago at a soirée, attended by a number of literary lions and their critical keepers, when the latter were successfully blooded by two of the former. One poet declaimed some of his verses shortly to be published. They were greeted with acclamation and a world of eulogy, the poet's wit, technique and power being dwelt upon in turn. The second poet then claimed attention for some verses written somewhat in his friend's manner, and published unsigned in a provincial paper. He himself, he said, found them hardly inferior to his friend's work. The critics immediately rose at him. They expatiated on the weakness of the verses, their slovenliness, their halting wit; and one critic heatedly avowed that none but a palpably inferior mind could have written them. Whereupon the famous poet slyly admitted that they came from no imitator's pen, but from his own.

Dr. E. J. Gwynn, Provost of Trinity College, Dublin, presiding.

THE REPORT.

The annual report stated that whether our nation would, or would not, be more highly placed than at present in the scale of real independence by standing outside the British Commonwealth was, it was thought, a matter of individual opinion, regarding which members of the society hold different views, but all were agreed to stand for the League idea; the system of conference and open diplomacy that it entails; the equality in rights of all States, great and small, and the elimination of force from international relations.

There was certain resentment against the League on account of the Irish Free State's membership. It would be more reasonable, said the report, for those whose political creed prevents them from approving of the general international recognition given to the Free State nine years ago, to regard the votes cast unanimously by 53 Governments in favour of the Free State's admission, as incidental to the earlier recognition of the Free State by all the Governments of the world.

THE PRESIDENT.

The President said that they wanted to encourage interest among Irishmen in the work of the League of Nations, but the great majority was apathetic. This was because the uses of the League were not brought home to the ordinary person. The financial crisis was, he thought, directly the result of the state of insecurity, and if he might say so, of suppressed war that existed, which would affect the finances of this country, and might "be brought home to us more closely and more unpleasantly before we are much older."

They had more to do than dissipate hostility and remove misconception, and to create forces of opinion in this country, as in other countries, working actively to support the objects of the League.

DISARMAMENT.

That the present terrible crisis was due to the world not following the League of Nations' principles was the opinion of Commander N. Lewis, R.N., who spoke on "Disarmament." The League of Nations in 1926 foresaw the crisis, and in 1927 called a great economic conference, that brought in a unanimous report which was mainly ignored. Each of the nations, said the speaker, was taking its own steps to deal with its problems, refusing the advice of the League.

Nations which were virtually bankrupt were spending huge sums on armaments, thus, spreading poverty at a time when no nation, even Russia, wanted war.

APPEAL TO IRISHMEN.

The meeting issued an appeal to Irishmen and women at home and abroad to give whole-hearted support to the armaments reduction movement.

London Salesman's bad

corns

Removed by Radox

"I am a sales representative, and through suffering from bad corns and aching feet I have found my duties very unpleasant. Last week a friend recommended Radox Bath Salts, and I immediately purchased a packet, using it the same night. The next day the sharp shooting pains had diminished. I carried out the treatment for three nights, and then found that the hard covering of the corns could be removed. After the sixth night of treatment I was able to remove the corns, and I can now carry out a ten-hour day without any pain."

HONOUR FOR IRISH CAPTAIN.

MERITORIOUS ARMY SERVICE RECOGNISED.

An annuity, with medal and decoration, has been awarded by His Majesty the King to Captain P. Caine, of Kilcumney House, Kildare, for "highly meritorious service in the Army."

Captain Caine, who is a native of Moate, has gained many prizes for horsemanship and skill at arms while serving in the Army. He is a linguist, and holds highest gunnery and educational certificates. Captain Caine served through the South African War, taking part in the battles of Colenso, Laing's Nek, Spion Kop, Tugela Heights, Relief of Ladysmith, in the Orange River Colony and Transvaal. In the European War he commanded a unit of the Fourth Division in France during 1915-1916, and was engaged in the heavy fighting around Ypres, Arras, Beaupaume (July, 1916) and Trones Wood.

UNIVERSE ONLY AT THE BEGINNING.

The universe is only at the beginning of its career; it is breaking up and doubling its size every 1,400,000,000 years, Sir James Jeans told members of the British Association at the Central Hall, Westminster, last night. A general breaking up process, he said, is in operation throughout the universe; it might be thought that the attractive forces of gravitation would continually draw all the broken pieces together again. The exact reverse appears to be the case. Not only is the substance of the universe for ever being broken into smaller pieces, but these pieces for ever tend to scatter further and further apart.

It looks as though the whole universe were uniformly expanding, like the surface of a balloon while it is being inflated, with a speed such that it doubles its size every 1,400,000,000 years.

One of the great puzzles of astronomy at the present moment is whether these apparent motions of recession are real or not. If the motions are real the universe is only at the beginning of its career; it cannot have doubled many times since it started. And as it appears at present to be doubling in size every 1,400,000,000 years, the few doublings which these figures permit cannot have occupied more than 10,000,000,000 years at most.

There is, I think, every reason to hope that within a very short time we shall know the truth about this puzzle. Whatever the solution may be, there seems to be a considerable chance that it may provide us with a clue, perhaps, even with a key, to the structure of the universe as a whole.

ROYAL SOCIETY OF ANTIQUARIES.

PROFESSOR KINGSLEY PORTER'S PAPER.

An interesting paper on an early sculpture found in Armagh was read at the quarterly meeting of the Royal Society of Antiquaries of Ireland yesterday at 63 Merrion square, Dublin, Dr. R. A. Macalister presided.

The following new members were elected:—As Fellow—The Rev. Roland G. Stafford, 53 Parkhill road, London, N.W.3.

As Members—William Haughton Baskin, Ashgrove Lodge, Highfield road, Rathgar; Miss Benedicta M. E. S. Chichester, 24 Waltham terrace, Blackrock; Lady Alice M. Coote, Palermo, Killiney; Mrs. Geraldine McConkey, 45 Pembroke road, Dublin; Daniel Nyhan, Drimoleague, Co. Cork.

Professor A. Kingsley Porter read a paper relating to a Relief of Labhraidh Loingseach, at present in the sacristy of Armagh Cathedral. That Relief depicted that old Irish chieftain or king as having been adorned with ears like a horse. Hence he used to kill on the spot everyone who cut his hair lest he or anyone might be aware of this blemish. This piece of sculpture was of extraordinary interest, and the figures (of which photographs were passed round to the members) deserved to be better known than they were. The stone, he added, was said locally to have come to light some years ago in the crypt. It had apparently been thrown there at no very early date.

How it happened to form part of the Cathedral of Armagh preceding the existing structure was a subject on which there semed to be no evidence.

It was ordered that the paper should be recorded in the Society's publications.

ST. MICHAEL'S HOSPITAL.

Archdeacon Murphy, P.P., presiding at the annual meeting of the Committee of Management of St. Michael's Hospital, Kingstown, yesterday evening, congratulated the Sisters of Mercy on the progress made during the past twelve months in the equipment and management of the hospital. There seemed to be a very bright future opening for the institution, and for the first time in fifty years they had been relieved of a burden of debt which would enable them to carry out their mission to the sick poor with more success than in the past.

The transformation that had taken place was complete and perfect in its way. He had known the hospital for fifty years—for thirty years intimately—and he knew it to be one of the most charitable organisations in the parish. (Applause.)

THE REPORT.

Mr. P. J. Moran, in submitting the report of the Visiting and Advisory Committee, testified to the care given to the patients (who had greatly increased in numbers) by the medical and nursing staffs. Every available bed was now occupied, and the appointment of the Medical Board had effected a great change for the better.

Mr. Burke, who moved the adoption of the report, said that the medical staff worked heartily with the Advisory Committee in the interests of the hospital.

Dr. O'Mahony, seconding, said that nobody appreciated more the work of the Visiting Committee than the staff of the hospital.

The report was adopted, as was also the report of the Ladies' Guild.

THE MEDICAL BOARD.

Dr. J. P. Brennan submitted the report of the Medical Board, in the course of which it was stated that since the reorganisation of the hospital the services of six trained nurses were obtained, and they worked under the supervision of four trained Sisters. The Pathological Department, which was up-to-date in every way, since it was opened last November, proved a very great advantage to the hospital and to the borough. They had 45 beds. The wards had been recently equipped with electric light, and the automatic oil heating system was now in operation throughout the building, so that an equable temperature was maintained in the wards. (Hear, hear.) During the year 453 patients were admitted, 106 operations were performed, 101 of which were successful, the other five being incurable. (Hear, hear.) In the Extern Department the services of the staff were demanded on 7,532 occasions.

The X-Ray Department, the latest addition to their equipment, was the most modern of its kind, and it supplied a much-needed boon to the hospital and a real convenience to many in the neighbourhood. The cost of improvements, additional equipment, and the clearance of a large debt, burdened the Community with a sum of nearly £20,000. The receipts from patients and legacies and charitable bequests would not bring their total revenue to £2,000; but, thanks to participation in the Dublin Sweepstakes, they were at the moment able to cope with the demand on their resources. (Hear, hear.)

On the motion of the Rev. Father Clarke, seconded by the Rev. Father MacDonald, the report was adopted, and

Dr. Brennan was accorded the best thanks of the meeting for the great work that he had done in reorganising the hospital during the past 10 months.

THE NEW TRIBUTE TO GENIUS.

COMMEMORATIVE STAMPS.

From "The Times."

Some nations nowadays delight to honour their famous men, not in monuments of stone or bronze, but with special issues of commemorative stamps. The stamp album, indeed, is fast becoming a modern gallery of fame, and already the number of stamp tributes to genius makes an imposing collection. Of all the arts, literature is perhaps most strongly represented, poets, authors and dramatists outnumbering the soldiers, sailors, statesmen, and inventors thus immortalised by their grateful countrymen. Among the latest recipients of philatelic honours is Victor Hugo, who will succeed Pierre Ronsard, leader of the Pléiade, upon one of the postage stamps of France. The political endeavours of Vincente Blasco Ibanez have possibly more to do with his forthcoming appearance upon the new stamps of the Spanish Republic than his authorship of the "Four Horsemen." Half a dozen well-known Austrian novelists and dramatists will be portrayed in the designs of a series of charity postage stamps soon to be issued in Vienna. They comprise Ludwig Anzengruber, Franz Grillparzer, J. Nestroy, Ferdinand Raimund, Peter Rosegger, and Adalbert Stifter. Spain was actually the first nation to pay homage to literature through the medium of the postage stamp in connection with the third centenary of the publication of "Don Quixote," twenty-six years ago.

DUBLIN HARBOUR NOTES.

THE PERILS OF TUSKAR ROCK.

GOOD-BYE, SUMMER.

From Our Harbour Correspondent.

SOME of us who only avoid walking under a ladder for fear of having paint dropped on our clothes, and throw spilt salt over our shoulders solely to amuse the children, smile indulgently at the superstitions which are often held by sailors. The most sceptical person, however, can condone the belief that there are certain rocks—leaving the Island of Sirens discovered by Ulysses aside—which have the power of exerting an evil influence. The nautical fraternity unanimously agree that there is no place with a worse reputation than that of the Ushant. The fact that off this spot more sailors have been drowned than in any other part of the world is, doubtless, responsible for the belief that this island possesses supernatural powers.

In Irish waters the Tuskar Rock, situated at a distance of four and a half miles off the coast of Wexford, is undoubtedly the Ushant of this country. Before the erection of the lighthouse the sea-bed in the vicinity was a veritable graveyard for shipping. Even to-day, despite the elaborate precautions taken by the lighthouse authorities, the Tuskar still demands its toll, as was witnessed in the case of the Royal Firth, which ran ashore there on Sunday week. Besides several smaller steamers, the loss of the Manchester Merchant and of the sailing ship Allerton can be remembered by many people.

Several workmen were drowned, through a sudden storm arising, when the lighthouse was being built, and this accident helped to confirm the sinister reputation which the rock had already acquired. The reef itself is only a bare fifteen feet above water, but the tower, erected in 1815, rises to a height of 113 feet, and exhibits a light visible for a distance of sixteen miles.

A WAR STORY RECALLED.

Officially, to-day is the end of summer, so far as the Liffey is concerned; for to-morrow the white cap-covers are taken off the barge caps, or, in nautical parlance, "the topsail is stowed." The term is rather apt, since schooners take in their topsails, as a rule, when bad weather is indicated. In a similar manner the white cap-top is "taken in," as though in anticipation of the gales which generally make their appearance in the month of October. They are not "bent" again, north of latitude forty, until the first of May.

Possibly, the prevailing fine weather on Monday made the ships reluctant to exchange the clean, sun-bathed sea for the dusty quays of the Liffey; for even the coasting arrivals were surprisingly few in number. By a curious coincidence, the eight ships which did arrive were two of a kind—reminiscent of the animals going into the Ark—consisting of two L.M.S. Railway steamers, two British and Irish Steamship Company's "Ladies" and two colliers. To complete the record, the two foreign arrivals of the day were the Glen Head and Leelan Head, both from the Continent with general cargo.

The Liffey assumed a more prosperous appearance on the following day, with the arrivals of the Anglo-Peruvian, of London, and the West Cobalt, belonging to Portland, Oregon. The British vessel Inber [illegible] tonnage of 3,331 tons, carried [illegible] cargo, and belongs to that [illegible] the Nitrate Producers' Steam [illegible] she came from Sydney with a [illegible] of [illegible]. The Anglo-Californian, which it may be remembered, put up a gallant fight against a submarine during the war days, also belonged to this firm. The encounter was conspicuous because the captain was blown to pieces before the eyes of his son, who was second mate of the vessel. The ship escaped, but was sunk by a torpedo about two years later.

A DAUGHTER OF THE SEA.

Captain Eno, of the Anglo-Peruvian, does "one better" than the skipper of the famous schooner Hesperus; for he has his wife as well as his daughter on board. They have been with him for the round voyage, which has lasted for a period of four months. So great an interest did his daughter, who is eighteen years old, take in the routine of life on board that she insisted on taking her "trick" at the wheel and her turn on the look-out during the whole of the passage hours. In addition, she can take observations of the sun with the sextant, and so work out the ship's position at noon.

The Tuskar Lighthouse.

The West Cobalt, which is no stranger to the Liffey, is one of our largest American visitors, having a registered tonnage of 3,331 tons. She came from New Orleans with general cargo, and followed her usual procedure by visiting Glasgow and Belfast before coming to Dublin. There is a certain amount of interest in a visit to an American ship, if only on account of the numerous nationalities which compose the crew. Germany, Denmark, Japan and Malta are some of the countries represented on board the West Cobalt, but every sailor, of course, is an American citizen.

It is gratifying to note that, on the whole, shipping to Dublin has been exceedingly brisk during the past fortnight, and that, in consequence, dock labourers and coalheavers have been working overtime. Other visitors to the port included the Norwegian steamer Greenland, from Blyth, with coal, and the British Trader, a large oil tanker, from Avonmouth.

FARMING IN THE FREE STATE

SENATOR BUTLER'S VIEWS.

POOR PROSPECT FOR PIG-FEEDERS.

By Our Special Correspondent.

IS farming in the Free State on the verge of bankruptcy, owing to conditions over which the farmers have no control; or is the depression confined to these farmers who lag behind the times and fail to adjust their methods to present-day requirements?

I must confess that before I started my inquiries among farmers themselves—the results of which have been published in two previous articles in the Irish Times—I should never have dreamed of asking this question. The continued outcry of the farmers had convinced me that the industry was approaching one of the worst crises that it had ever experienced.

On the other hand, if my inquiries had been confined solely to the County Cork I might have formed the opinion that the dismal prophecies of rural areas that were rushing into ruin were merely the croakings of pessimistic "defeatists" and old-fashioned farmers who had failed to keep abreast of the times. The accounts of conditions on the land which I heard in other parts of Ireland, however, were much too serious, and born too evidently the ring of truth, to allow me to dismiss the matter so lightly as that.

FARMING EXPERTS VIEWS.

Weighing up the two contrasting sides to the story, I found it hard to reconcile them, and equally hard to assume that circumstances in the County Cork could be very different to those in other districts, though I do believe that the methods employed in that county set an example which many other counties might advantageously follow. I obtained the views, however, of Senator Butler, the President of the Irish Farmers Union.

Senator Butler is one of those who considers the Free State agricultural situation to be very grave—so grave that, on account of the large surplus of stocks, they are not likely to benefit for some time at least from the present financial position. He agreed, however, that agriculture in several other countries, including Great Britain, was in an even worse plight.

A COMING TEST.

I asked him how he accounted for the satisfactory position of the Cork farmers, and he confessed himself beaten, though he was inclined to have doubts as to their bookkeeping.

"Possibly," he added, "they have not discovered the position in regard to the cattle trade yet. The test will come when they try to sell their store cattle. In other parts these are already in the markets, but in Cork stores are not sold until rather late in the year. However, they will soon find out now that there is a slump in stores.

"It is all very well to suggest that farmers should grow their own feeding stuffs, but what is the use of that when foreign cattle are sold cheaper than they can be grown here? We are advised to grow green vegetables, which are better suited to the conditions in Cork than to the conditions of most counties. If we could be sure that the vegetables that we planted would be ready at any definite time, it might be possible to cultivate them so as to take advantage of the most favourable times for marketing, but one can never tell which month they will be ready; that depends entirely on the weather. And, in any case, what would be the state of the market if every farmer had green vegetables to sell?"

THE PIG TRADE.

The Senator added that he could not see any reason for optimism regarding the pig trade, as the shortage of potatoes this year was going to have a serious effect upon swine in many parts of the country, where they were fed almost entirely upon potatoes.

"MY NERVES BRACED UP after taking PHOSFERINE my Breakdown is over and done with, and I am even able to endure severe and dangerous work entirely owing to the revitalizing effect of three small tubes of Phosferine. For thirty years I have been greatly distressed by my nerves, off and on, then I had a breakdown with every nerve affected from head to toe, and I was under medical treatment. My heart palpitated so painfully that I could not make anyone believe the torture I endured, but I said, 'I won't give in,' and I kept plodding on. I tried various well-known remedies to brace me up, without success. I was persuaded to try Phosferine and I can truly say after I had taken three small tubes I felt my nerves standing the strain, for the first time, perfectly, so I continued with Phosferine, and am all right now. I worked out-of-doors, but I got work as a Gas Stoker where the retorts are manually charged instead of by machinery, so you can see what Phosferine did for me when I had to stand by those white hot retorts, and it was due to the wonderful results Phosferine had on me that I stood that severe nerve test. It is a great help when one is working away from home all day, and I am confident

Phosferine restores Strong Nerves, Sleep and Strength."

Dramatic Court Story.

Turk's Dead Body in Antrim Cornfield.

American Accused of Murder.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

CARRICKFERGUS, Tuesday.

GREAT interest was taken in the resumed hearing at Carrickfergus to-day of the charge against Edward Cullens, who claims to be an American citizen. Cullens was charged with the murder of Achmet Musa, whose nude body was found in a cornfield at Seskin, Carrickfergus. The accused man was arrested in London by District Inspector Lewis, of the Belfast C.I.D.

The prisoner was remanded in custody for a fortnight.

Opening the case for the Crown, Mr. H. H. Mussen said that the accused man was charged with the murder of Achmet Musa, a Turkish subject, on Wednesday night, September 2 last. In April last the prisoner arrived in England from America. He formed one of a party of four, three being of Turkish nationality, and the prisoner an American. The principal member of the party was one Zara Agha (who represented himself as being 156 years of age); one Assim Redvan; the third the deceased, Achmet Musa; and the accused, Cullens, being the fourth. They had entered into an agreement forming a sort of partnership or syndicate to exploit Agha as the oldest man alive, each taking a percentage of the profits. The idea was that Agha should be shown to the public at circuses and such places of entertainment. Only two of these persons knew the English language—namely, Redvan and Cullens. Musa could speak only a few words of English. They joined the large travelling circus of Bertram Mills, which was well known all over England, but not in Ireland, two of them, Agha and Redvan, as artists at salaries. Prisoner and deceased man, although living with the others at the circus, were not really engaged by the circus management, but were playing the part of boosting and advertising Agha, selling photographs of him and doing odd jobs about the circus, Musa at the same time acting as a personal attendant on Agha.

After some interval the prisoner found evidently that he was not making much headway at this, and when the circus was at Wavertree he suggested to Redvan that he (Cullens) and Musa should have a tour round the country to see if they could better themselves. Cullens afterwards borrowed a large Essex saloon motor car from Redvan, and he and Musa left Wavertree together in Redvan's motor car on August 28 last, not mentioning to Redvan their destination. On the night of August 28 they crossed with the motor car to Belfast by the Liverpool steamer, Cullens booking in the name of "Bernard Berman." Before leaving Wavertree, Musa had a sum of £67 in the Post Office Savings Bank, and on the strength of that he borrowed £30 from Redvan. Cullens had been continually borrowing from Redvan.

ARRIVAL IN BELFAST.

On their arrival at Belfast on the Saturday they put up at a lodging-house at Donegall quay. On the afternoon of Saturday they met a girl named M'Goldrick.

On Sunday, August 30, they took M'Goldrick and a friend of hers (Peggie Murphy) in the Essex saloon car to Bangor, prisoner driving the car. Before leaving the city prisoner called at Ferguson's garage to change a tyre, and when there he put his hand into the pocket of the car to get something, and when he was doing so he pulled out two towels, a pair of gloves, and a lady's bathing cap. Both girls would give evidence as to that incident, and the importance of the bathing cap would become apparent later.

Accused man and Musa accompanied M'Goldrick on a drive to Derry on the next day, Monday.

They next found the accused man at the garage of James M'Ilroy, at Prince's street, Belfast, on Wednesday, September 2, where he was having some slight repairs done to the car. On the same day, Wednesday, September 2, prisoner and deceased man left Ryan's lodging-house not saying where they were going. Mr. Ryan saw them about 7.30 on the same evening in the motor car going down Corporation street in the Carrickfergus direction, and that was the last time they were seen together.

On the following morning, Thursday, September 3rd, about 8.30, a bloodstained coat and vest with M'Ilroy's waterproof were found in a gateway in Victoria street, Belfast. The coat and vest would be identified as resembling the coat and vest worn by deceased during his visit, and M'Ilroy would identify the waterproof as the coat which was stolen from his garage.

About 11.30 on the same morning a shoe, since identified as the property of the murdered man, was found in Princes street near M'Ilroy's garage. The coat, vest, and shoe had the appearance of having been cut away or ripped with a knife.

FINDING OF THE BODY.

On the following morning, Friday, September 4th, the naked body of Musa was found, with a lady's bathing cap on the head, in a field at a place called Seskin, near Carrickfergus. On examination it was found that he had been shot through the head by a .25 automatic pistol.

The Crown suggested that everything pointed to the prisoner as the person who committed this deed. He returned alone to England with his car, and when Mr. Redvan asked as to Musa's whereabouts he said that he had separated from him, and that Musa told him he was going to London with a girl. The circus moved to Leeds, where a case for an automatic pistol was found in Cullens' suit case. The two towels and gloves were found in the car pocket, but the bathing cap was missing.

When the first witness was sworn, Mr. Mussen, answering Mr. Bell, said that the accused man was not professionally represented. He was an American citizen, and spoke English.

Evidence was given by a farmer of the finding of the body.

Police evidence was given that the man's right eye was closed and the left one open. Under the right was a small punctured wound, and a bullet wound in the front of the right ear.

Evidence also was given by Assim Redvan and by the proprietor of the hotel in Belfast where Cullens and Musa stayed.

Rose McGoldrich stated that as she and Peggie Murphy rode to Bangor in the car she asked Cullens if the other man was a Jew. He replied that he was not, but that "he was taken for a Jew, and that he was like an old Jew—that he had plenty of money, but would not part with a half-penny."

Cullens was remanded as stated.

Returned American's Death.

Brother Charged.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

WATERFORD, Tuesday.

There has been a sequel to the death of a returned American, William Lannin, at Rathcuagh, Kill, Co. Waterford. As already reported, Lannin was believed to have fallen on the concrete floor of his house, and to have died from a fractured skull after returning from the seaside last week-end. Following the inquest which was held on the body, his brother, Richard Lannin, was arrested by Superintendent Kelly, Tramore, and charged with causing his brother's death. Formal evidence was given by Superintendent Kelly, and the accused man remanded on bail to the next Kilmacthomas District Court.

Deceased man was fifty years of age. He returned from America twelve months ago when he purchased a small farm near Tramore. He was married a year ago.

At the inquest, which was held by Dr. Bryan Foley, Deputy-Coroner; Dr. Walsh, Bonmahon, and Dr. Coffey, Waterford, testified to having carried out a post-mortem examination. Dr. Walsh said that he found a wound three-and-a-half inches long on the deceased man's scalp. He also found that the deceased man had been suffering from heart disease, which was liable to cause death at any time.

Raid for Minute Book.

Town Hall Incident.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

LIMERICK, Tuesday.

The Limerick Civic Guards are inquiring into a raid on Limerick Town Hall last evening for a minute book, said to contain references to the recent Tipperary murder which was condemned by the Public Health Committee of the Corporation. The officials in the office, apart from Mr. Joseph Peacocke, with whom the raiders had an interview, were not aware of what was going on.

The raiders wore no disguise, and they were most courteous in their dealings with Mr. Peacocke. They said that they were acting under orders, and had to seize the book. When Mr. Peacocke declined to produce the book at first they produced a document which, they said, authorised them to carry out a search of the premises. Peacocke acted quite coolly throughout, and when the men had left the Guards were notified.

The seized book did not contain any reference to murder, as it is not customary to record such resolutions passed at the meeting of the Public Health Committee.

Cork's New 'Buses.

In addition to six double-decked 'buses, a number of single-deck 'buses of a new and improved type will be employed, and forty-six 'buses in all will be in use. The routes followed will be the same as those already in existence, with two exceptions. In future all city 'buses will bear a letter indicating their route, and this will be illuminated by night.

Iceland's Example.

Dealing with Poaching Trawlers.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

DONEGAL, Tuesday.

That the Free State should follow Iceland's example in dealing with poaching trawlers was the statement made by Mr. E. Gallen at the meeting of the Donegal County Council yesterday. He said that in Iceland within the last two years they had seized six trawlers and their gear, and fined the raiders, including their catches and nets, £4,913, or an average fine of £818. The gear was worth £300 or £600. There were four cases where gear was not properly stowed, and fines amounting to £441, or an average of £110, were imposed. Twenty seizures had been made in recent years. An important point was that the patrols were financed out of the fines.

Hospital Work Claim.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

MARYBOROUGH, Tuesday.

"The facts are most peculiar and most interesting," said District Justice W. J. Meagher at Maryborough District Court, in giving his decision in a civil bill brought by James Dowling, labourer, Portarlington, against the Laoighis Board of Health and Public Assistance for £8 12s., which he claimed for work done by him in Abbeyleix District Hospital.

The District Justice said that the record of the order of the Circuit Judge in the Workmen's Compensation proceedings was most valuable, because as a result of the evidence tendered by the defendants, the same defendants as in the present proceedings, the Circuit Judge held that the plaintiff was fit for work on December 12th. Assuming that that was the evidence on which the order was based, what on earth was the man doing in the hospital from December 12th to April 14th? He was not a patient; he was not discharged. He found that the plaintiff for nineteen days did the wardsman's work, and he gave a decree for £2, with 5s. witness's expenses.

Northern Magistracy.

COLERAINE, Tuesday.

Alderman Daniel Hall Christie, Mayor of Coleraine, presided at a conference of the Northern Ireland Magistrates' Association, which was held in Coleraine to-day. Sir Robert Kennedy, K.C.M.G., said that the status of the magisterial Bench had been lowered by the action of those responsible for appointments to the Bench, who had been influenced by political and other considerations, and the consequences were seen and felt to-day. Almost the first act of the Southern Ireland Government was to abolish the ancient order of Justices of the Peace, and substitute legally-trained, salaried District Justices. This was drastic and violent action on the part of a young and inexperienced Government. The Northern Ireland Government had adopted a middle course by depriving the local Justices of certain jurisdiction, but had increased their numbers, and in making recommendations for appointments the Ministry of Home Affairs, under political pressure, had yielded to the temptations which, in the past, had corrupted the Bench.

The conference also was addressed by Commander Gilliland (Derry); Messrs. T. G. Houston (Portrush), C. A. Munro (Portstewart), David Johnston (Lurgan), W. G Armstrong (Belfast).

Threat to Railway.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

WATERFORD, Tuesday.

At a largely-attended meeting of the Tramore Public Health Committee last night the following resolution was adopted:—

"That this Committee, representing the ratepayers of Tramore, protest against the proposed closing of the Waterford and Tramore Railway, as it would be against the interests of the town, and would lead to further unemployment."

A copy of the resolution was directed to be sent to the Free State Minister concerned, the President of the Waterford Chamber of Commerce, Waterford Corporation, and the Great Southern Railways.

Free State Motor Tax.

Derry's Position.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

DERRY, Tuesday.

DERRY business men were found to hold opposite views when, at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce to-day, a resolution was submitted from Newry Chamber—that failing reciprocal arrangements about motor cars entering the Free State sanction should be got from the Northern Parliament to charge duty on "foreign" cars going North for other than pleasure purposes.

Mr. A. W. Anderson, proposing the adoption of the resolution, said that it was not fair to have to pay duty to the Free State under the present arrangement.

Mr. J. Colhoun seconded.

Mr. Edmiston, however, opposed it, pointing out that Derry was peculiarly situated as regards the border, and that many Free State lorries came into the city to take away goods.

Mr. Cochrane said that such Free State motor cars should not have to pay a tax which would be virtually a tariff on goods going out of Derry.

Mr. Magee said that it would be very dangerous to pass the resolution, and ultimately by a majority it was decided to mark the Newry resolution "read."

Copyright Music.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

NEWRY, Tuesday.

At a meeting of the Newry Urban Council, which was held last evening, a letter was read from the Performing Right Society, Ltd., London, stating that they understood that the use of copyright music controlled by the Society was being made in the Newry Town Hall during dances and other musical entertainment, without the Society's permission having been previously obtained. "We grant licences," they added, "to municipal authorities, and we may mention that approximately 400 Municipal Corporations and District Councils throughout the country have taken up licences on the basis of our tariff."

The Clerk said that the Society claimed that the Council would be liable if any person or company occupying the Hall infringed the copyright of their (the company's) music, and they claimed that the Council should take out a licence to cover the matter at a cost of 5 per cent. of the proceeds of the letting.

The matter was referred to the town solicitor (Mr. P. J. O'Hare) for his opinion.

Examination of Bankrupt.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Tuesday.

An application for the examination of a bankrupt was described by the County Registrar as "a rather unusual procedure," at the Cork Bankruptcy Court to-day. It was in respect of James McCarthy, of Minane Bridge, and notice had been previously given that his first public examination would not take place until October 6th.

Mr. O'Driscoll, for the petitioning creditor, agreed that the present application was unusual, but explained that there were certain assets of the bankrupt, including a will, in his favour which should be handed over to the Official Assignee without delay. If the examination was held over till October 6th he was afraid some of the assets might disappear.

The Registrar refused the application, stating that it was in the interests of the public that he should act in accordance with the usual procedure of the Court.

Early Morning Fire.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Tuesday.

Early this morning a fire broke out in the licensed premises of Mr. Meaney, at Waterloo, near Blarney. The fire was first noticed about 2 a.m., and spread so quickly that Mr. Meaney had little time to remove his wife and children to a place of safety. The outbreak was finally subdued at about 6.30 by the Cork Fire Brigade, but not before the house had been destroyed.

DULEEK SHOW AND SALE.

BRISK BUYING OF CATTLE.

The autumn show and sale of cattle by Messrs. C. J. Russell and Company, the Ashbourne auctioneering concern, held at Duleek yesterday, was well supported. The entries totalled just over three hundred, two hundred and fifteen head of cattle being entered for the different classes in the show and an additional eighty-five for the sale.

The quality of the exhibits generally was above that of animals usually seen in the sale ring. The cattle were mainly two-year-olds, but there was a fine quality shown in the class for cows, the winner here being an exceptionally good lot.

The judges were:—Messrs. J. J. Rooney, George Hoey, James Hoey, J. Bellew, H. Leech, W. Curran.

SHOW RESULTS.

Cow or Heifer, springer or calved—1, J. T. Davis, Sodstown, Donore; 2, G. Fitzsimons, Garristown.

THE SALES.

At the sale, which took place after the judging, the quality of the exhibits was proved by the amount of business done. The people were buying, and buying at prices which, if anything, ranged a little better than those prevailing in the Dublin and Manchester markets for some weeks past. In some cases the prices of certain animals improved by a pound a head on their values eight or nine days ago.

There was a lively sale for springers and calved cows, and the fine price of £29 10s. was made by Mr. Tallon, of Fennor, for a cow about to calve, which was bought by Mr. Murray, of Drogheda. This cow was too late for the class in the show. The first-prize winner in the class was sold by Mr. Davis, of Fennor, for £26 to Mr. MacDonnell, of Garristown. Another cow was sold by Mr. Keelahan, of Drogheda, for £25 5s. to Mr. Curran, of Rosehall, Drogheda. The price paid for springers or calved cows averaged between £17 and £18.

The prices in the other classes also were up to a good average. The following were the prices paid for the prize winners in the different classes:—

Shorthorn Bullocks—1st and 2nd made £17 12 6 each.

Railway Line Closing.

On Thursday the Ballina-Killala railway line, after an existence of forty years, will close. It is understood that it is the intention of the railway authorities to lift the rails and sell the land to the Land Commission. A notice issued states that the line will be substituted by a road 'bus service.

The traders of Killala have sent a memorial to President Cosgrave urging him to intervene.

NEWS SUMMARY.

IRELAND.

Experts in Dublin express the view that the result of Denmark's abandonment of the gold standard is likely to rob the Free State of the advantages which it hoped to secure in the British markets. (Page 3.)

In the Northern Parliament yesterday the Government was warned that it stood in danger of defeat on the question of the reduction of rents and the housing problem. The Government's promise to set up a committee to investigate these matters saved their immediate anxiety, and the debate was adjourned until to-morrow.—(Page 8.)

A meeting in Dublin last night of the League of Nations Society of Ireland appealed to all Irishmen and women to give whole-hearted support to the movement for the reduction of armaments.—(Page 4.)

At Carrickfergus yesterday Edward Cullens, an American citizen, was charged, on remand, with the murder of Ahmet Musa, who was found naked and shot in a corn field. He was remanded in custody.—(Page 5.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

In the Imperial Parliament last evening the Economy Bill was read a third time and sent to the House of Lords. The Opposition attacked the measure, and there was some degree of disorder.—(Page 8.)

The Cabinet has as yet reached no decision regarding an early general election. Yesterday the Premier had an audience of the King.—(Page 8.)

The King and Queen arrived at Buckingham Palace yesterday morning from Balmoral Castle.—(Page 8.)

Repeated baton charges were made by the police when unemployed workers attempted to storm the House of Commons last night. Twelve arrests were made. The disturbance was continued in Hyde Park. Traffic in the West End was held up.—(Page 7.)

Uncertainty was the prevailing note in the world's money markets yesterday. Canada has taken special measures against dumping, and in the United States the Government is so alarmed that it is seeking means of raising its already lofty tariff walls. Spain, Italy and Greece are applying strict regulations to their exchanges and to export of gold. Sterling yesterday showed a slight improvement.—(Page 7.)

ABROAD.

It is learned that Colonel Fitzmaurice and Captain Saul are completing arrangements to fly the Atlantic from New York to Dublin next spring.—(Page 7.)

India's Budget, introduced yesterday, seeks to convert an estimated deficit this year of nearly eight million pounds into a surplus by a heavy all-round increase in taxation and cuts in salaries ranging up to twenty per cent.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING.

At Listowel yesterday Captured Late won the Ladies' Plate, East Galway the Listowel Plate, Jack o' Glen the Ballybunion Plate, Croppy Queen the Castleisland Plate, and Opalia the Limerick City Plate.—(Page 10.)

At Newmarket yesterday Bargany won the Great Eastern Handicap.—(Page 10.)

At Hamilton Park yesterday Red Laird won the Chatelherault Handicap.—(Page 10.)

FINANCIAL.

London Stock Markets were easier. British Funds improved here and there, but elsewhere prices all reached lower levels.—(Page 12.)

In Lombard street overnight loans were available at 4½ per cent. Fine bills were quoted 5⅝ per cent. Gold fell to 105/3 per oz. A million of Cape gold was in the market, but all except £20,000 was held over.—(Page 12.)

In Dublin Free State Funds improved, but other movements were mostly adverse. Guinness dropped to 87/3.—(Page 12.)

Cause and Cure.

In her present distress Britain has the comfort of a large companionship. Everywhere the economic outlook is black, and men's hearts are failing them for fear. Half the world's gold is stored in American vaults, but the American people cannot eat it. The number of their unemployed may reach ten millions during the coming winter; already the plight of some States is desperate, and the Governor of Mississippi predicts "a bread line in every town of the State, with no one to furnish the bread." Germany hangs on the edge of bankruptcy; bank after bank is closing its doors; the unemployed numbered more than four millions at the end of August. Holland is faced with a deficit of some five million pounds. By sacrifice, toil and a steely hardness of purpose France has made herself in a few years the richest nation of Europe and the chief arbiter of Europe's political affairs; but here again stocks of gold have not saved her from the general fate. Her unemployment problem begins to be comparatively serious; four years ago it did not exist at all, but now forty thousand French citizens are idle. In France, as in the United States, gold has been hoarded at the heavy cost of national trade. During the first eight months of this year French imports [£240,000,000] have shown an adverse balance over exports [£168,000,000] of £72,000,000, and it is estimated that the next French Budget will show a large deficit.

Now a new and potent ingredient is thrown into the witches' cauldron of trouble. Even Great Britain has begun to reel under the too vast orb of her fate. Her policy of free trade—or rather of free trade without free imports—has brought some of her greatest industries to a standstill and has put millions of her people on the unprofitable and spirit-sapping dole. She has been forced to abandon the gold standard, and is thus guilty of an initial treachery to free trade; for the depreciated pound operates indirectly as a tariff on imports. Other countries, in order that they may retain the benefit of free British markets, have hastened to desert the gold standard; Denmark, in particular, has regained her briefly-lost advantage as the Free State's most formidable competitor in those markets. Already we hear the grinding of the machinery which is raising tariff walls to meet this new situation. The United States Government contemplates additions to existing tariffs as a protection against foreign goods produced more cheaply through the abandonment of the gold standard. If England reinforces the depreciated pound with actual tariffs on imports, the economic problems of all other countries will be multiplied. A British tariff on imports would strike a terrific blow at French industry, and might sound the economic death-knell of smaller States.

Nevertheless, it is virtually certain that in the near future England will resort to tariffs. The only doubt is whether a Conservative Government will enforce tariffs with whole-hearted zeal as an industrial panacea, or whether a National Government will employ them with discretion and restraint. If, as we hope, patriotism defeats partisanship, so that the next general election will return Mr. Macdonald to office at the head of a new National Government, tariffs will be introduced firmly, indeed, but cautiously and with due regard for international complications. On the other hand, the triumph of extreme Conservatism would mean an instant challenge to the world and a relentless tariff war between all the industrial States. In either event Ireland's position will be exceedingly delicate, but her general policy will be clear: her statesmanship must strive to secure the fullest advantages that her geographical position and her imperial status can confer. We cannot believe, however, that the policy of the next British Government, National or Conservative, will find a permanent solution of Britain's economic problems. They are only factors in a world problem which the whole world must solve if its civilisation is to survive. Neither Britain nor any other State can prosper so long as one-half of Europe's industry is paralysed by war debts—so long as Sisyphus is forced to roll his inexorable stone and Midas starves amid heaps of barren gold. The world can be saved only by that device which the Greeks called a seisachtheia—a common delivery from burdens; and the real merit of British tariffs will lie in the fact that, the sooner a situation becomes impossible for all men, the sooner all men must conspire to mend it.

Problems of Broadcasting.

Affairs in the world of "wireless" have become sadly unharmonious. Britain, as it appears, is the aggrieved party; for not only are her manufacturers instituting a number of test cases alleging infringement of patents, but the British Broadcasting Corporation itself is thought to be contemplating resignation from the International Union as a result of its failure to secure a revision of the Prague Plan. The licensing "pool," consisting of three component companies, has named in a statement to the Radio Manufacturers' Association five patents which, as it claims, are being embodied in foreign sets imported into the country without payment of the proper fees. Action will be taken against all infringers of the patents, whether they are manufacturers, dealers or users. Indeed, several writs already have been issued. For some time reports have been reaching the "pool" from its members, demanding redress against foreign "poaching," and it is to be hoped that the impending suits, whatever their individual results, will engender a healthy hesitation into the minds of any persons who may have been presuming upon past tolerance. No doubt, such a situation is due largely to the rapidity with which "wireless" manufacture of all kinds has developed in recent years. The industry has not begun to settle into established channels, and many loopholes remain for the piratical. While this problem is primarily the concern of the manufacturer, the British Broadcasting Corporation's position concerns every listener in Europe. We referred not long ago to the mission of Mr. Ashridge, the Corporation's chief engineer, who went to Brussels in search of a temporary solution of wave-length difficulties, pending the assembly of the Madrid Conference in 1932. It seems now that the manner in which the British scheme was rejected was such that the Corporation might be justified if it left the International Union. Actually the Corporation's defection might cause the Union to be dissolved, since without British authority it scarcely could function. We trust that the matter can be adjusted; for in the absence of any international control the ether, already confused enough, would become a battleground for a wave-length war in which victory would go to the broadcasting concern whose stations were the most stentorian. On the other hand, general policy may dictate Britain's withdrawal, since no useful purpose will be served by fidelity to a union that fails to seek the way of co-operation. It must be remembered, however, that broadcasting is in its childhood, and that much forbearance will be necessary to bring it to that sense of universal responsibility which the nature of its services to mankind requires.

House-Planning.

In the past the dreams of architects have taken shape in consummate palaces of metal and masonry, but to-day the time has come when architecture must display itself as a democratic art. The Royal Institute of British Architects listened this week to an address in which Sir Banister Fletcher outlined the importance of mundane detail in terms that should be welcome to innumerable housewives. A modern woman may be charmed by the exterior of an old and quaint dwelling, but she has come to realise the useless labour that its management entails. While clever devices to save drudgery appear constantly on the market, their use often serves to betray the shortcomings of the design which makes their employment desirable. The old type of town house, with its basement, in which so many generations of servants have lived their sunless lives, is, perhaps, past redemption, and its occupants are gloomily resigned to its inconveniences; but the householder can complain legitimately of the lack of common-sense that is displayed in more modern dwellings. Rooms are not intelligently planned in relation to one another; there is no provision for central heating or for refrigeration, and the disposal of rubbish presents an insoluble problem to the occupants of flats. When domestic servants were plentiful the defects of house-planning were not always obvious to their employers, but when educated and well-to-do women were driven to perform domestic duties for themselves the secret was out at once, and a rise in the standard of living has completed the process of disaffection. The palace of King Minos at Knossos, when it was brought to light by modern excavation, was found to be fitted with a bathroom, a dressing-room and a system of plumbing. Only now has architecture begun to extend to all classes the facilities which the Cretan monarch enjoyed four thousand years ago.

The Smaller Joint.

An old and robust tradition attributes the virile qualities of British character to a solid foundation of beef and beer. While beer remains a buttress of national life, it is clear that the great joint of beef has lost favour. Like most movements of the day, the tendency to breed smaller animals may be traced, at least in part, to economic conditions. If a smaller beast, with an appetite in proportion, can be made to yield as good returns as the larger stock of a generation less harassed by economic cares, the breeder's choice is not a matter for prolonged cogitation. The prize-winning cattle at English shows to-day—according to the Agricultural Correspondent of The Times—would appear as pygmies alongside the champions of the past century. Such a change, however, is influenced by deeper causes than any temporary embarrassments of commerce; it springs from man's altered attitude towards his meals, and it betrays the simple truth that we eat less than our forefathers. Perhaps, too, variety has a greater place on our tables. The mutations of the weekly joint of old could be forecast—and frequently were forecast by the younger members of the family—with a dismal accuracy. From the smoking sirloin beneath which the Sunday table groaned to the curry in which it made its final and somewhat desiccated appearance on Thursday, its career was worthy and nutritious, but scarcely exciting. To-day appetite must be coaxed by frequent alterations in the menu, and a joint from a smaller beast not only will counteract monotony, but will fit nicely into the gas-ovens which have ousted the spit and the open fire. Our grandfathers bought their meat by the stone; what would they say of a degenerate posterity that thus has inaugurated a flight towards the pound?

COMING SESSION OF THE DAIL.

MEETING OF THE EXECUTIVE.

URGENT PROBLEMS REVIEWED.

BY OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.

ALL Ministers, with the exception of Professor O'Sullivan, Minister for Education, who is on holiday abroad, and Mr. Fionan Lynch, Minister for Fisheries, were present at the meeting of the Executive Council of the Irish Free State held yesterday at Government Buildings. The meeting lasted from 11.30 until 2 o'clock. The various problems at present facing the Government were reviewed, including the financial question. The Council also had before it draft plans concerning the legislation to be put before the Dail when it meets this day fortnight.

The intention still is to put Mr. Fitz-Gerald-Kenney's Police Bill in the forefront of measures to be considered. In this connection the re-opening of military stations in places where they had been closed is regarded as significant.

THE SENATE VACANCIES.

Senators on the re-opening of their House on 14th October will have to decide whether the vacancy caused by the death of Senator P. J. Hooper will be filled at once or whether it will be postponed till the triennial elections in November. The procedure will be that on the sitting of the Senate the Clerk (Mr. D. J. O'Sullivan) will formally report the vacancy, and the question of an election will be put to the Senate. The same procedure will take place with regard to the Vice-Chairmanship, an office that is also vacant through Mr. Hooper's death.

It is highly improbable that the House will decide to fill either vacancy before the triennial elections. At most the persons elected to fill the two offices would not have more than a month to serve, as both would have to be vacated at the end of the triennial period. Whenever the election takes place, it is understood that one of the candidates will be Mr. George Crosbie, of Cork.

In connection with the Vice-Chairmanship, it is probable that Senator M. F. O'Hanlon will be a candidate. He was one of the candidates some months ago when Senator Hooper was elected.

QUEEN OF NORWAY'S VISIT.

LANDING AT NORTH SHIELDS.

The Queen of Norway, who is paying one of her customary visits to England, landed at North Shields yesterday. She was accompanied by members of her suite. The vessel in which she travelled was gaily decorated. Just before landing Her Majesty received representatives of the Norwegian Consulate in Newcastle and representatives of the owners of the liner. She left almost immediately by motor car.

BRITANNIA ACCIDENT RECALLED.

ROYAL HELP FOR ORPHAN CHILDREN.

The King and Queen are placing the two eldest children of Mr. Ernest John Friend, second mate of the King's yacht Britannia, who was washed overboard and drowned in the Solent last month, in the Royal Merchant Seaman's Orphanage, at Bear Wood, near Wokingham, Berkshire.

The Secretary of the Orphanage, Mr. F. W. Rawlinson, told a reporter that the King and Queen each had the right—which they were now exercising—of placing a child in the orphanage. "It is Their Majesties' own wish that we should accept these children, and, of course, we are very pleased to do so," he said.

"Both Their Majesties take a very keen interest in the orphanage. The King is its patron, and was president until he ascended the throne. The present president is the Prince of Wales.

NURSES' PENSIONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I see that a meeting in Dublin has discussed the feasibility of getting money for nurses' pensions from the Hospital Trust Fund. Personally, I think that the Fund's money should all go to the hospitals, and in any case the project would require an Amending Act in the Dail. I would suggest that all the benefiting hospitals should allocate, say, the small portion of 10s. per cent. of the large moneys that they have obtained from the Trust. Neither hospitals nor nurses can exist without the other; and it would be appreciated by the general public who subscribe to the great sweeps. It would be a gracious act by the hospitals.—Yours, etc.,
F. W. SAUNDERS.
Dunfanaghy, Co. Donegal,
September 28th, 1931.

UNEMPLOYED RIOTS AT WESTMINSTER.

MOB ATTEMPT TO STORM THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

REPEATED BATON CHARGES BY POLICE.

TRAFFIC HELD UP IN THE WEST END.

REPEATED baton charges by police took place outside the House of Commons last night, when several thousand unemployed workers tried to force their way into the precincts of the House while Parliament was sitting. Twelve arrests were made.

Hundreds of police were on duty in the vicinity, and strong cordons were stretched across the approaches to the Houses of Parliament. When the rioters attempted to break through the cordons mounted police galloped out from a side street, where they had been waiting, and five motor cars laden with police dashed up from Scotland Yard.

A deputation was allowed to enter the House, where a petition protesting against "cuts" in unemployment benefit was presented to Mr. W. J. Brown, the Labour member for Wolverhampton. Further rioting occurred later when the deputation emerged and led the demonstrators back to Hyde Park.

Following scuffles with the police, some of the demonstrators tore down wooden palings in the Park and broke them up into staves and clubs, but their leaders restored order. The crowd then marched in procession through the West End, and traffic in Oxford street was stopped for a time.

HYDE PARK PALINGS AS WEAPONS.

SEVERAL thousand unemployed met in Hyde Park, London, last night, as a prelude to an intended demonstration outside the House of Commons to back up the presentation of a mass petition containing over 200,000 signatures of employed and unemployed workers pledged to fight against dole "cuts."

The National Unemployed Workers' Committee, who arranged the demonstration, had been warned during the day by Scotland Yard that no demonstration would be permitted within a mile of the House of Commons while Parliament was sitting.

The organisers announced that this warning would be disregarded, but the proposed march was abandoned, and the demonstrators were asked to make their way from Hyde Park to Westminster individually.

POLICE CORDONS.

Hundreds of police were on duty at Westminster when the demonstrators arrived, and strong cordons were stretched across every approach to Parliament square.

It was impossible to get within fifty yards of the gates of the House, and the unemployed massed themselves on the corner of Whitehall and Great George street.

One hundred policemen were hidden inside Palace Yard, ready to meet any attempt by the crowd to swarm into the precincts of the House of Commons.

There was a remarkable scene in Parliament square when a deputation of eight, headed by Mr. Wal Hannington, marched from the north side of the square with the object of presenting a petition to Parliament. The deputation had been permitted to pass the police cordon stretched across the road, when a section of the crowd, numbering at least a thousand, made a rush towards the gates of the House of Lords. The deputation was allowed to hand a petition to Mr. W. J. Brown, M.P., for submission to the House of Commons to-day, but the rush of the crowd was stemmed by the police.

WILD SCENES.

Shouting "Up the Red Flag!" "Hands off the Workers' Wages!" "No Cuts in Benefit!" the crowd again attempted to break through the police cordon, and, though they met with stern resistance, a few managed to get past the police.

Five motor cars containing policemen dashed down Parliament street from Scotland Yard, and simultaneously a dozen mounted police, who had been waiting in a side street, galloped out and scattered the crowd. Men and women ran in all directions.

After the crowd had been dispersed a long line of police guarded every approach to the Houses of Parliament, and prevented everyone except the deputation from entering. While awaiting the return of the deputation the crowd gathered on the north side of Parliament square and the approaches to Parliament street, where they cheered, jeered, sang and shouted.

POLICE SURROUNDED.

Shortly afterwards the mounted police made another charge to move the crowd, which had established itself on the pavement of Parliament square, shouting "Down with the National Government!" and singing the "Internationale."

Just before the charge a firework was let off, causing a policeman's horse to take fright. As the animal reared one of the demonstrator's clutched the reins and apparently refused to let go. Immediately four mounted police officers drew their batons, but the man fought them off for some minutes. He was then placed under arrest.

The mounted police were surrounded by an angry crowd. People attempted to pull them from their horses, but, striking right and left, the officers forced their way clear.

BATON CHARGES.

A number of arrests were made, and so hostile was the crowd that mounted officers were forced to clear Parliament square with another baton charge. So far as could be seen there were no casualties.

Another wild rush came when the deputation left the House of Commons. The crowd surged across Parliament square, singing the "Red Flag," and the mounted police were once more called upon to disperse them.

For ten minutes Parliament square was blocked to traffic while the police cleared a way through the shouting crowd. When the deputation came into the square they were cheered, and a thousand unemployed formed behind them in a column, which marched up Whitehall, back to Hyde Park, to hear from Mr. Wal Hannington the result of the visit to the House.

WOMEN KNOCKED DOWN.

The demonstrators went to Hyde Park, where the position was explained to a crowd of about ten thousand. There was one ugly scene when the police were marshalling the crowd. There was some resistance, and in the disorder, which lasted for a few minutes, a number of women were knocked down.

Following this some of the demonstrators tore down wooden palings in the park, and broke them up into staves and clubs. They were then persuaded by the leaders to remain quiet.

The crowd again formed itself into a procession and marched to the West End. Traffic in Oxford street was stopped for a time.

THREAT FOR TO-DAY.

Mr. Hannington told a reporter that the deputation spoke to Mr. Brown and other M.P.'s in a private room, and handed the petition to them. "We are hoping that this petition will be brought to the attention of the House to-morrow," he said.

It was arranged at the meeting in Hyde Park that the unemployed should gather for a demonstration outside Bow street Police Court to-day, when their companions who were arrested last night will make an appearance.

During the disturbance in Whitehall there was a wild scuffle near the Cenotaph when some unemployed men rushed at a squad of police. Fighting took place, and several arrests were made.

Altogether about ten arrests were made in Parliament Square. Among those taken to Cannon Row Police Station was a girl, who was seen struggling in the arms of three policemen.

At midnight it was stated that altogether twelve arrests had been made.

Eight of the persons were formally charged with assaulting the police, two with obstructing the police, and two with insulting behaviour.

FLYING SPEED RECORD.

ANOTHER EFFORT AT CALSHOT.

MACHINE WITH 2,600 H.P. ENGINE.

Another attempt was made at Calshot yesterday evening by Flight-Lieutenant G. Stainforth, flying the S. 6 B. seaplane fitted with a special sprint engine to create a new world's speed record.

Weather conditions were ideal, and shortly before 4.30 the machine was taken out for Flight-Lieutenant Stainforth to make a short preliminary test before flying over a three-kilometre course.

At 5.50 the machine made a perfect take-off, and, flying at a great speed, climbed high into the air over Southampton Water, preparatory to the first dive.

Stainforth completed five rounds of the measured course at what appeared to be an astonishing speed.

The pilot landed safely after making a swift run. He was in the air for twenty-six minutes.

AN ANXIOUS WATCHER.

Seated on a low stone wall was Mrs. Stainforth, the young wife of the daring pilot, who watched her husband axiously throughout his flight. As Stainforth stepped into the speed boat which was to take him to the seaplane she fluttered her handkerchief and shouted "Good luck."

LIEUTENANT STAINFORTH.

The flight was timed by electrical camera apparatus, which photographed the machine as it crossed the line at each end of the course. When the film is developed the speed of the machine is recorded to a millionth part of a second.

Stainforth was evidently well satisfied with the behaviour of the machine, and he thought that the average speed would be better than that recorded on his last attempt, when he broke the world's record at a speed of 379 miles an hour.

THE 2,600 H.P. ENGINE.

The flight was the culmination of many days of waiting, during which there were anxious hours for the engineers, who were producing what is regarded as one of the most remarkable engines in the world.

There were times when it was feared that they would not run the risk to human life of using an engine of such colossal power. There were hurried conferences, and finally, after Squadron Leader Orlebar, Captain of the High Speed Flight, had visited the Rolls-Royce works at Derby, and seen Sir Henry Royce, the specially-tuned engine was delivered.

It can now be stated that the engine develops an additional 300 h.p. compared with the standard Schneider engine, its full power being 2,600 h.p.

The engine was guaranteed to possess only what might be described as "one crowded hour of glorious life." There was no opportunity to make trial runs or comparative tests with the propellers.

THE PILOT'S LOG.

Stainforth's log-book gave some idea of the great flight which he had just accomplished, and illustrated in very simple, but vivid, language some of the difficulties which had faced him. He found the visibility so poor that he could only steer his course by the formation of the clouds. The log-book recorded that visibility was only from three to six miles.

"The machine took off in 43 seconds," it proceeded, "opened throttle quickly, and got nearly full revolutions, with very little misfiring. I did not seem to get full power at any time during the take-off. The machine swung to the left, but I managed to pull her right before porpoising.

"Slight porpoise was damped out after throttling slightly. Got in bad patch just before take-off. I felt a little instability fore and aft after getting into the air. The machine accelerated rather slowly, and was tail heavy. The engine got really good after I had got 200 miles an hour, and tail heaviness disappeared.

"I shot over Hamble and did short west to east runs. Then I began a series of five runs over the measured course, with the Warner Lightship as my point at one end and Hythe Pier at the other.

"The visibility was not good, but I got a line on Warner lightship, and kept on my course by the use of the cloud formation. The line was very easy to get from Hythe pierhead. The course was kept fairly clear of boats at this time.

"After finishing my laps I approached from over Hill Head at 180 miles an hour. The landing was O.K., except for a slight swinging from side to side, which was easily corrected with the rudder."

400 MILES AN HOUR?

The Press Association reporter at Calshot, telephoning at 1.45 a.m. to-day states that he is unofficially informed that the average speed may exceed 400 miles an hour.

INDIAN BUDGET BURDENS.

THE VICEROY'S SACRIFICE.

ALL-ROUND RISE IN IMPOSTS.

INCOME TAX NET SPREAD WIDER.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

SIMLA, Tuesday.

SIR GEORGE SCHUSTER, the Finance Member, introduced his Finance Bill this afternoon in the Legislative Assembly, and in his speech announced that the Viceroy (Lord Willingdon) had decided upon a self-imposed sacrifice of twenty per cent. in his salary.

The taxation proposals include a temporary surcharge of twenty-five per cent. on all existing taxes, except Customs export duties. The surcharge will, therefore, be imposed on all existing Customs and Excise duties, including the salt tax, income tax, and super tax. With regard to income tax for the current year, the surcharge will, however, be only twelve and a half per cent.

There is to be a new tax of four pice in the rupee (six and a quarter per cent.) on incomes of between one thousand and two thousand rupees per annum.

[Income tax exemption limit has hitherto been two thousand rupees per annum.]

DEARER POSTAGE.

The import duty on artificial silk and camphor has been doubled to forty per cent.; that on artificial silk yarn has been raised to fifteen per cent., and that on brown sugar has been increased to seven rupees four annas per ton. A minimum duty has been imposed of four annas per pair of boots or shoes, ten per cent. on machinery and dyes, and half an anna per pound on raw cotton.

The rate for inland postage on letters and postcards has been raised by one-half.

Members of the Viceroy's Council have volunteered a fifteen per cent. cut in their salaries, and the remainder of the services will be cut by a maximum of ten per cent. This includes the income tax increase.

The cuts are applicable until March, 1933, but Sir George Schuster laid much emphasis on the fact that they will be reconsidered at the earliest possible opportunity.

DEFICIT OF £7,700,000.

Army reductions next year amount to £3,375,000.

The current year is expected to close with a deficit of £7,720,000, but the 1932-33 Budget should show a surplus.

Sir Hari Singh Gour said that the House was staggered at the Budget proposals, which came as a complete surprise to the members. The military reduction was inadequate, and the present time was inopportune for extra taxation.

Sir Abdul Rahim urged the Assembly to refuse the introduction of the bill on similar grounds.

Mr. Arthur Moore asked what the whole world would think if, in the discussion of a national emergency, the Finance Bill were at once rejected by the Indian members of the Assembly.

LORD WILLINGDON.

"COURAGEOUS BUDGET."

Mr. Yamin Khan thought that the Government should have accepted all the propsals of the Retrenchment Committee, and wished the Finance Bill to be considered in Delhi in November.

Sir George, in agreeing, said that the Government intended to accept in the main all proposals made by the Retrenchment Committee. This was a critical moment in India's history, and he appealed to members not to make the Government's task harder than it is.

The motion was put to the vote and carried by 57 to 43. The bill was introduced, and will be considered in Delhi early in November.

In all circles here Sir George Schuster's "resourceful and courageous" Budget, although involving heavy personal sacrifices, is regarded as necessary for India's well-being.

NEW YORK TO DUBLIN.

TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIGHT.

A FITZMAURICE-SAUL ENTERPRISE.

CAPTAIN J. P. SAUL, who navigated the Southern Cross on the flight from Portmarnock to New York last year, returned to Dublin yesterday. He told an Irish Times representative that he and Colonel J. C. Fitzmaurice, who flew the Atlantic in 1928 with the late Baron von Huenefeld and Captain Köhl, had planned to fly the Atlantic from New York to Dublin next spring.

The aeroplane which will be used on the flight is a Sikorsky amphibian S 38. This type of aircraft is capable of alighting either on land or water. The machine already has been purchased, and during the winter it will be fitted with additional tanks to carry another 1,100 gallons of petrol. The performance of this aeroplane has been demonstrated; for, although it has not been in the air more than twenty hours, it holds the world's altitude "record" for amphibian aircraft.

COLONEL J. C. FITZMAURICE.

A GOOD-WILL TOUR.

Captain Saul said that the machine would carry only himself and Colonel Fitzmaurice. After reaching Dublin they intend to proceed to London, Paris, Rome and other European capitals on a "good-will" tour before returning across the South Atlantic to Pernambuco, and then flying up the east coast of America to New York.

During his stay in America Captain Saul visited a number of the leading aircraft factories and flew several American-built aeroplanes. He was at Cleveland, Ohio, as the guest of the National Air Races Committee, together with Flight-Lieutenant Atcherley, Herr Ernst Udet and other famous European pilots, who attended the flying meeting, which is the biggest on the American Continent.

Captain Saul had intended to return to Ireland some weeks ago, but deferred sailing, as he and Colonel Fitzmaurice thought that it might have been possible to fly the Atlantic this year. It was decided, however, that the weather conditions were becoming too unsettled, and the flight was postponed until next spring.

MAKING ARRANGEMENTS.

Colonel Fitzmaurice hopes to visit Europe some time next month to interview several of the leading aviation authorities and make advance arrangements for the flight.

Captain Saul is leaving Dublin for London, where he will meet Air Commodore Kingsford-Smith, and hopes to return with him to Dublin in the aeroplane in which he is attempting to break the "record" for the Australia-England flight.

FROM "THE TIMES."

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

MR. MACDONALD'S TASK.

The Times remarks in a leading article to-day:—Though the Prime Minister is not expected to announce any decision to-day, it is reported that the Cabinet meeting held yesterday made definite progress in their task of securing an agreed basis for a common appeal to the country. Too much time has already been spent in discussing whether there is to be an immediate general election, and so long as there is a shadow of doubt in the mind of any member or supporter of the present Government it cannot be too strongly insisted that a decision in favour of this course is dictated by every consideration of the interests of the nation.

In the first place, the majority behind the present Government in the House of Commons is precarious. By the end of this week it will have loyally co-operated in the task so signally shirked by the leaders of the Opposition, of balancing the Budget by the two equally distasteful methods of imposing heavy additional taxation and of enforcing drastic economies. This majority was secured for one limited purpose, in the expectation—very reasonable at the time—that the balancing of the Budget by such means would restore our financial prestige. In that case there would have been plenty of time to argue out in full detail what was the best subsequent method to render unassailable both our financial and our economic position; but the expectation that it would be safe to leave the next steps to a fresh clash of party politics has proved illusory.

DANGEROUS UNCERTAINTY.

Our currency has no longer any value except that imposed upon it from day to day by circumstances, many of which have nothing whatever to do with its intrinsic worth. The whole world knows that if for any of many possible reasons sterling were to suffer a further serious depreciation, then the work of balancing the Budget might be swept away, the majority behind this Government might fall to pieces, and the last state of the country be worse than the first. There can be no safety until there is an end of uncertainty. There can be no end of uncertainty until a Government is in power, based upon a solid majority, with a guarantee from the constituencies that public opinion is behind it, known to be ready to take, without hesitation, whatever measures may be necessary in a situation changing from hour to hour to avert immediate calamity, and to plan national reconstruction, and with a prospect of being able to carry on this policy of self-defence and of construction for a period of years.

Mr. Macdonald has rightly allowed it to be known, adds The Times, that he will not identify himself with any party's policy, and that he will not merely pass from the leadership of one party to the leadership of another, but that does not mean that he need simply wait for a united front before he takes the lead. On the contrary, if he will only take the lead, there is little doubt that a united and a very wide front will form itself behind him.

RETIREMENT A DISASTER.

His retirement from politics, merely on the ground that unity among his present colleagues was unattainable, would be a national disaster. Nobody else can weld together the forces making for national stability. If he disappeared from the scene, the old party wrangles would inevitably be resumed—a consummation wholly contrary to the national desires and the national interests, and quite unrepresentative of a situation in which inexorable events have eliminated dogmatism from the views of all reasonable persons, whether Socialists, Liberals or Conservatives. But if he sets up his standard as a national leader, the response is already assured.

The Rev. Hugh Walter Brownlow Thompson, B.A., B.D., of St. Catherine's Rectory, South Circular road, Dublin, for some years editor of the Church of Ireland Gazette, who died on April 7th last, intestate, son of the late Canon David Thompson, left trust property in England valued at £6,813 11s. 5d.

NEW ASPECT OF WORLD CRISIS.

GOLD COUNTRIES IN DREAD OF DUMPING.

CANADA ADOPTS SPECIAL MEASURES.

UNITED STATES IN THROES OF TARIFF FEVER.

WHILE sterling showed a slight improvement yesterday, the world's financial markets were affected by progressive abandonment of the gold standard, and uncertainty prevailed.

Successive fits of liquidation demoralised the New York stock markets, and securities touched new low levels. Some three million shares changed hands. A feature of the day was the heavy pressure against United States Government securities.

Those nations which have retained the gold standard are becoming nervous, lest countries with depreciated currencies should seize the opportunity to flood their markets with cheap goods.

This applies particularly to the United States of America, where the authorities are so alarmed that they are at their wits' end to increase their tariff wall.

Canada also is apprehensive. She has devised new measures, which apply in drastic form to the United States, and in a more moderate way to British imports.

Spain, Italy, Greece and Egypt all are concerned alike for their exchange and to prevent export of gold.

PANIC SELLING IN NEW YORK.

Successive flurries of liquidation drove securities on the Stock Market to new low "records," says a Reuter message despatched last night. There were numerous losses, ranging up to four points. Auburn Motors and Cocola broke more than twelve points.

The sales were approximately three million shares.

In view of the restrictions upon "bear" raiding, Wall street is perplexed as to the source of the selling. Brokers say that selling orders have been heavy from American proprietors, as well as from abroad.

In the Bond Market there was heavy pressure against United States Government Securities. German Bonds, however, remained steady.

United Kingdom 5½ per cent. Bonds closed at 95½, the quotation being unchanged.

U.S. GOVERNMENT ALARMED.

HIGH TARIFF BARRIERS CONTEMPLATED.

The United States Government, alarmed at the possible increase of imports from countries with a depreciated currency, is consulting with the Treasury as to the possibility of raising the already high tariff barriers provided by the Hawley-Smoot Tariff Act.

It appears that at present there is no way in which this can be done except by the Tariff Commission's having recourse to the "flexible provision" of the Tariff Law. In no case under the "flexible provision" may the total increase, or decrease, of the rates of duty exceed fifty per cent. of the rates expressly fixed by statute.

HOW EUROPE'S CREDIT MAY BE RESTORED.

BANKERS' IMPORTANT STATEMENT.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Tuesday.

"An adequate programme for reviving confidence and establishing a sound basis for credit is contained in the Basel Committee's report," said Mr. Wiggin, Chairman of the Chase National Bank, on his return from Europe.

He went on to say that the restoration of European credit depends upon lower reparations, lower inter-Allied debt, lower tariffs, and a rapprochement between France and Germany.

"The gold of the world is concentrated in a few hands," he added. "Extension of credit is necessary, but credit alone is not enough, nor can adequate credit be given in the existing conditions. I believe in prompt action on the lines of the Basel report. It will speedily turn the course of world affairs, so that the necessary credit of other nations can be extended, and the United States of America again do business as usual."

AMERICAN GOLD SHIPMENTS.

BIG AMOUNTS FOR FRANCE AND SWITZERLAND.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Tuesday.

Within the past four days large shipments of gold for Europe have been arranged by the Guaranty Trust Company. No less than £3,280,000 nominal are destined for France, £1,078,000 for Switzerland, £205,000 for Holland, and £6,000 for Belgium.

Of these amounts the Cunard liner Aquitania sailed to-day with £1,400,000 nominal for France and £1,000,000 for Switzerland.

TO SAFEGUARD HER EXCHANGE.

CANADA'S PROTECTIVE MEASURES.

Reuter's Ottawa Correspondent cables that, consequent on the drastic exchange situation, with the £ sterling at slightly over four dollars, and the Canadian dollar at a discount of nearly 10 per cent. in New York, the Government has taken action which will preserve, or probably increase, the protection tariff on imports from the United States, whilst imports from Great Britain will enter on an appraisement valuation, commensurate with the depreciated sterling exchange.

The Department of National Revenue states:—

"With regard to currencies which are at an exchange rate adverse to Canada, the value for duty in Canadian currency is to be determined by advancing the actual home consumption value by an amount of premium at the rate of the average of exchange current upon the date of shipment."

The passage above refers to imports from America.

So far as imports from Great Britain are concerned, the new regulation reads:—"With regard to depreciated currencies, the value for duty purposes is to be arrived at by computation at the rate of the average rate of exchange currency on the date of shipment."

In addition to this, loans of some tens of millions of dollars required to meet unemployment relief expenditure, and the requirements of the Canadian National Railways for bond interest will be raised by domestic offerings rather than by flotation in New York.

SCANDINAVIA.

EFFECT ON KRONER

Following on the abandonment of the gold standard, Norwegian kroner, having fallen a little on Monday, rose again yesterday on all foreign money markets except London. The quotations were:—

New York	4.72
London	18.10
Berlin (for 100 m.)	112.00
Paris (100 frs. quoted)	18.75

In Stockholm it was announced that the Stock Exchange would remain closed until further orders. Quotation was nominal both yesterday and Monday, 17 kroner being offered for £1.

In Copenhagen yesterday the bill suspending the gold standard till November 30th was passed by both Chambers of the Rigsdag.

SPAIN AND STERLING SLUMP.

LOSSES MAY AMOUNT TO £1,000,000.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MADRID, Tuesday.

The serious loss to the Bank of Spain occasioned by the slump in sterling was discussed at an extraordinary session held here to-day of the Superior Banking Council, which was attended by representatives of the foreign banks.

It is believed that Spain's losses may amount to £1,000,000. The French loan of last July was accepted in sterling, but is repayable at the fixed rate of 124.21 francs to the £.

The Finance Minister (Señor Prieto) recently suggested the repayment of all forward operations in gold, but the bankers strongly opposed it. Losses are foreseen through the forward operations taken over by the Bank of Spain.

The Bank's contracts call for payment by cheques on London, but the Bank is now demanding repayments in gold, while the traders object, and insist on London cheques.

It is understood in well-informed circles (says Reuter's Paris Correspondent) that negotiations are proceeding between the Bank of France and the Bank of Spain for the transfer into French currency of the advance of £9,000,000 against a gold guarantee, granted on June 22nd, to the Bank of Spain.

KINGSFORD SMITH'S MISFORTUNES.

SANDSTORM MET IN SYRIAN DESERT.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BASRA, Tuesday.

Air-Commodore Kingsford Smith, who left Bushire this morning hoping to reach Aleppo to-night, has had the misfortune to encounter a heavy sandstorm, and it is expected that he will have to land at Shaiba, which is about half-way between Basra and Aleppo.

Kingsford Smith, who is trying to beat Mollison's "record" of 8 days 13 hours by flying from Australia to England in seven days, reached Bushire last night and set off again, but was soon forced to return by a fault in his oiling system. He finally left for Aleppo at 10 a.m., the delay costing him eight hours. This is the sixth day of the flight.

"SWEEP" TICKETS AS LUGGAGE.

CUSTOMS CAPTURE AT LIVERPOOL.

Liverpool Customs officials yesterday opened a large consignment of boxes marked "eggs, with care," and "creamery butter," which were part of the luggage of a woman passenger in a steamer from Ireland, says the Daily Mail. They are alleged to have found inside fifteen thousand books of sixpenny tickets for a sweepstake run by a Limerick institution.

The prizes were blocks of tickets in the Free State Hospitals' Sweepstake on the Manchester November Handicap. The tickets were confiscated, and will be burned.

DRASTIC STEPS URGED.

GERMAN APPEAL FOR NATIONAL UNITY.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Tuesday

The League of German Industrialists, together with ten other leading associations of trade, industry, commerce, shipping, and insurance, submitted to-day a joint resolution to the Chancellor, Dr. Bruening, to the Federal Government and to leading Parliamentarians urging the Government to disregard party politics and to help Germany out of her present economic distress, for "all material ideals and cultural values of the nation are materially in danger unless at the last moment energetic action is taken by the Government."

The resolution demands drastic cuts of wages, measures to reduce unemployment, the reduction of railway and postage tariffs, the abolition of the Government's control of industry, and other far-reaching measures.

The resolution finally urges that there can be no compromising between Socialistic and capitalistic methods. The German policy must frankly and without reserve side with the individualistic economy system.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Tuesday.

IRISH LADIES' GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP.

HOLDER AND FAVOURITE BEATEN.

Mrs. J. B. Walker, of the Island Club, Malahide, the holder, was defeated in the second round of the Irish Ladies' Golf Championship on the County Sligo course, Rosses Point, yesterday. Miss E. Ellis (Royal County Down), her conqueror, who is in her teens, played a very strong game in the heavy wind, and she was three up with five to play. She found the burn at the fourteenth, and was bunkered at the fifteenth to lose those holes. She played the seventeenth steadily, and, with Mrs. Walker missing her second shot, and lying against the bank of the green for her approach putt, the holder lost that hole and her championship.

Mrs. J. F. Jameson, the other finalist of a year ago, also was among the defeated in the round, as she was beaten by Mrs. K. Huggard, while Mrs. Cuthell, winner of the British championship of thirty-one years ago, lost to Mrs. D. G. Madill by two holes.

Miss Ellis, in turn, was beaten in the third round by Mrs. Todd by four and two. Miss M. B. Fitzgibbon (Greystones), runner-up in 1921, entered the last eight, beating Miss Daisy Ferguson, an Irish international, by three and two.

Miss Dorothy Pim, who was favourite for the championship, was beaten by Mrs. Kidd in the third round.

MR. COOLIDGE NOT TO STAND FOR OFFICE.

He is in favour of President Hoover continuing for a second term of office.

CRUISER BUDGET HALVED.

U.S. ECONOMY: BIG DROP IN TRADE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday.

The Government has reduced the number of destroyers in the naval building programme from eleven to five.

This decrease in the building programme is in accordance with the Government's decision to cut down expenditure "to the bone." The appropriations for the building of the eleven destroyers were passed in the final session of the last Congress.

Another adverse balance for American trade is revealed by the figures for the month of August. Imports exceed exports by £1,032,000 (nominal).

Not only is there an adverse balance, but the total volume of trade is the smallest in value for any month for a number of years.

The August exports are valued at £32,501,600, as compared with £58,780,600 for last year. Beside this £16,000,000 loss on exports the import trade has to face a decrease of over £10,000,000. This year's August imports amount to £33,334,000, as compared with £43,683,400 for the same month last year.

Mr. Albert Wiggin, chairman of the Chase National Bank, who (states an Exchange message from New York) returned from Europe yesterday, said that normal business conditions will not prevail in the United States until purchasing power develops in Europe, South America and Asia, and until Europe, especially Germany, can function normally.

Business depression is world-wide. England and Germany have already taken vigorous action, but they need the help of the rest of the world, particularly of the United States and France.

NORTHERN GOVERNMENT WARNED.

THREAT OF DEFEAT ON RENT AND HOUSING PROBLEMS.

DEBATE ADJOURNED UNTIL TO-MORROW.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Tuesday.

THE Northern Government was warned in the Northern Parliament to-day that there was a possibility of it being defeated on a resolution moved by the Labour member (Mr. J. Beattie), asking for legislation to reduce the standard rents of controlled houses by at least ten per cent. The warning was given by Mr. William Grant, a Unionist back bencher. Subsequently, the Minister of Home Affairs (Sir Dawson Bates) agreed to set up a committee to inquire into the whole question. This appeared to mollify the members and the dangers of a defeat vanished. The Prime Minister subsequently gave an undertaking that all sections of the House would be represented upon the committee.

At 4.30 p.m. Mr. J. Beattie (Labour) moved that the Government pass legislation reducing the standard rents on all controlled houses by at least ten per cent., and that the Rent Acts be amended so as to bring under control all houses below £26 valuation, and that a fair and reasonable rent be fixed upon them. He said, if all sections of the community were called upon to make sacrifices in the present crisis, he was justified in asking that house-owners in Northern Ireland should at least make an equal sacrifice with the unemployed. Many people living in houses of a valuation of from £8 to £26 were paying a rent increase of 150 per cent. Seventy-six thousand people living in these houses had been given into the control of the landed gentry of the province. The Government still controlled houses of a valuation of £8 downwards, and he asked them to resume control of houses up to £26 valuation. There were many vacant houses in Belfast, because the people could not pay the rents, and more people lived in one-room dwellings there than in any other part of the country.

Alderman Byrne (Nationalist) seconded, and said no people were suffering so much as the poor people who were charged excessive rents. Cowsheds and stables had been converted into dwellinghouses, and rents of 6s. to 10s. a week charged for them. House-owners had taken unfair advantage of decontrol by the Government. The Government should set up a Rent Court, and have a fair rent fixed for all houses.

MEMBER'S WARNING.

Mr. W. Grant (Unionist, Labour) supported the principle of the resolution, but not its terms. He thought that it was an opportune time to consider the question of rents, for they had just finished consideration of an Economy Bill, and tenants ought to be protected. Many vacant houses in Belfast would be occupied if reasonable rents were asked for the houses. "I want to warn the Government that it is in great danger in this House this afternoon, as there is a possibility of a Government defeat on this resolution."

The Minister of Home Affairs (Sir Dawson Bates) pointed out that the question of rent restriction was bound up with the housing problem generally. Unless they were very careful in dealing with this question of fixing rents or interfering with housing, they would be placed in exactly the same position as that in which they were placed in 1914. It was an awkward problem, and he did not want to take a step which would stop the building of houses. If they had insisted, when giving the housing subsidy, that the rents would be fixed by a Rent Court, not one-tenth of the houses would have been built. If they put on restrictions the building of houses would cease altogether.

Mr. Henderson (Independent Unionist)—It has ceased now.

Sir Dawson Bates, proceeding, said that in such an event the Government would be compelled to come in and build houses, and he asked where the money would come from. He was prepared, however, to set up a committee to inquire into the situation, but he pointed out that they should look to the future and endeavour to get houses for which people could afford to pay.

Mr. T. Henderson said that there were several thousand vacant houses in Belfast, and the owners were holding them up for high rents now that they are de-controlled.

Minister of Finance—That is their loss.

Mr. Robert Crawford (Unionist) said that many house owners had not charged unfair rents, and it would be a wrong thing to penalise them along with others by insisting upon a ten per cent. reduction. He thought the Minister of Home Affairs had made a fair offer to set up a committee, and he hoped that an assurance would be given that the committee would get to work at once.

Mr. J. Stewart (Nationalist) said that legislation on the lines suggested was long overdue.

DANGEROUS REMEDY.

Lord Craigavon admitted that the problem was a far-reaching and serious one, and said that it would be a fatal thing if they took any sudden decision, the effect of which would be to prevent the erection of suitable accommodation for the working classes. They should remember that the remedy which might at the moment be applied to meet the special cases mentioned might be worse than the disease. He reminded the members that at the present time there were 897 houses under £10 valuation vacant in the City of Belfast out of a total of 2,071 empty houses. He admitted that there were cases of in which the tenants were exploited, but he thought they were few. The proposed committee would be composed of members of all sides of the House, and the subject which affected the very lives of the people would receive cautious investigation.

TO BE SHELVED?

Mr. O'Neill (Nat.) expressed the view that the Committee would merely shelve the subject, and gave the instance of the Committee which inquired into leaseholds in Co. Antrim.

Mr. A. Blacker, K.C. (U.) expressed the hope that the Government would set up a strong Committee, as in England, preferably not of politicians, but of those interested in social matters.

The debate was adjourned until Tuesday, the Government, in the meantime, to submit the names of the proposed Committee and terms of reference.

PENSIONS BILL.

The Minister of Labour introduced the Widows, Orphans and Old Age Contributory Pensions Bill to amend the existing Act to define "normal occupation," and so entitle to widows' pensions the widows of men who attained the age of 70 on or before the 15th July, 1912, and died on or after the 4th June, 1926, and whose normal occupation was at some time within three years before he attained this age of a certain kind.

The bill was read a second time.

The Prime Minister announced the Royal Assent to the Economy Bill.

STRANMILLIS COLLEGE.

Mr. J. H. Robb, K.C., Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Education, replying to Mr. J. M. Carroll (Nationalist), said the total amount spent on the acquisition and equipment of Stranmillis Training College, including the hostels and practising school, was £179,025. The sum expended upon the maintenance of the College for the session 1929-30 amounted to £22,200, including £1,113 spent on repairs and renewals. This figure did not include any charge for interest on capital, outlay, or depreciation.

The religious denominations of the students at present in Stranmillis Training College were:—Presbyterians 126, Church of Ireland 52, Methodist 9, other Protestant denominations 11; total 198. The number of students who had completed their training in the College was 931.

The College was wholly maintained by annual capitation grants of £70 in the case of a man, and £52 10s. in the case of women students, together with the fees paid by the students.

BIRD PROTECTION.

Mr. Devlin moved the second reading of The Wild Birds Protection Bill, a private member's bill, which has already been passed by the Senate. Mr. Devlin, who was received with general cheers, said the bill put into legislative shape the recommendations of a committee representative of the various interests concerned, to consider the general protection of wild birds in Northern Ireland, having regard, in particular, to the conditions of bird life and its effects on agriculture. The bill consolidated the law on the subject, and removed the confusion caused by birds being protected in some districts and outlawed in others. The bill also provided for the creation of bird sanctuaries in Northern Ireland. At present there was only one such sanctuary—in the grounds of Hillsborough Castle. Such sanctuaries were springing up all over England and Scotland, and there was one in Hyde Park, in the heart of London. It was proposed that the bill come into operation on the 1st January next.

Professor M'Neill seconded. He said the passing of a measure such as this was a good tribute to the memory of a well-known Ulsterman, the late William Thompson, who wrote a natural history of Ireland in 1849.

USEFUL MEASURE.

The Minister of Home Affairs (Sir Dawson Bates) congratulated Mr. Devlin on introducing such a useful and practical measure. Most members of the House were bird lovers, and they would welcome and give a unanimous second reading to it.

Mr. William Grant (U. Lab.) supported the bill, and expressed the hope that Mr. Devlin would support a bill to prevent the coursing of captive hares.

Colonel Gordon (U.) hoped that the bill would not interfere with pigeon racing, either to or from Northern Ireland. He noticed that one of the birds to be protected was the Irish Jay. He was told there was no such bird. "In fact, the only jay in this country is the taxpayer," he declared, amid laughter, and added that this particular jay was already well plucked and deserved every protection.

Sir Robert Lynn, Professor Corkey and Messrs. Connellan and Healy supported the bill.

Mr. T. Henderson (Ind. U.), welcoming the bill, said that great harm had been done to bird life in the North, and he regretted that it had not been introduced before.

The bill passed its second reading.

UNEMPLOYMENT FUND.

On the money resolution in connection with Unemployment Insurance, Mr. J. Milne Barbour, Minister of Commerce, said that it flowed naturally from the proposals contained in the Economy Bill. The present borrowing power of the Northern Ireland Fund was £2,500,000, and it was now proposed to increase the maximum to £2,600,000. This was necessary because the British Unemployment Fund had power to borrow up to £115,000,000, and when that figure is reached the Exchequer would provide for any deficiency in the fund. Accordingly, the Northern Ireland Fund must be empowered to borrow up to an equivalent amount, which was in the region of £2,600,000.

The resolution was agreed to.

THE SENATE.

The business at the Senate was purely formal.

Mr. J. A. Long, Deputy-Leader of the House, announced that the Royal assent to the Economy Bill had been received.

The Senate adjourned until to-morrow.

A GATEWAY TO EUROPE.

GALWAY AS AN AIR PORT.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Tuesday.

SOME further developments in connection with the proposed Galway air port have taken place recently, and a meeting has taken place here between Mr. Quinn, the Vice-President of Messrs. Dorland International Advertising (Inc.) of New York and Mr. C. H. Clendining, the Managing Director of the British Trade Propaganda Corporation, Ltd., representing some interested British parties in this scheme.

UNITED STATES INTEREST.

Mr. Quinn, who is primarily interested in the possibility of placing part of the ultimate public issue which will be necessary to finance this project on the New York market, expressed the following opinions:—

(1) That the proposal for an international air port at Galway would be of interest to the United States Government, who are at present experimenting, through aviation, as to the possibility of speeding up the mail service between the United States and Europe.

(2) That the proposal for a high speed service to Galway by sea, combined with the proposal to link Galway up by air with London and the principal Continental cities, would be of considerable interest to the American business community.

(3) That the tentative proposal put forward, that part of the ultimate public issue should be placed on the New York market, would be favourably received, providing that the proposition could stand on its merit, and that sentiment was entirely ruled out.

(4) That the whole-hearted support of the Irish organisations in America might be anticipated towards making this project a success, once it was under weigh, by influencing their adherents to regard Galway as a gateway to Europe.

Mr. Quinn informed Mr. Clendining that the promoters could rely on the co-operation of his firm, and offered to put him in touch with two important New York banks, whose depositors are overwhelmingly Irish, and whose support might be forthcoming for the project at a later stage.

Messrs. Dorland International Advertising (Inc.), New York, were founded by Senator Edge, the present American Ambassador at Paris, and their President is chief of a New York banking house.

Mr. Quinn, as his name would suggest, is an Irish-American, and on his maternal side is related to a member of the Executive Council of the Irish Free State Government.

THE EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS.

FLOOD-LIGHTING SCHEMES.

The Dublin Corporation flood-lighting scheme for the Eucharistic Congress will, it is learned, include the City Hall, the Public Health offices, and the Pembroke Town Hall and Fire Station. There will be "strip-lite" lighting with coloured lamps at O'Connell Bridge, the Mansion House, the Grattan Statue, the Crampton Monument and the Sir John Gray Statue.

The Government flood-lighting scheme includes Government Buildings, the dome of the Four Courts, the General Post Office, the dome of the Customs House and the office of Public Works, St. Stephen's Green.

The Department of Posts and Telegraphs has informed the Congress office that a special postage stamp will be issued next year in recognition of the Congress.

THE CONGRESS BADGE.

Attention is directed to the advertisement in this issue connected with the official Congress badge. It will be noted in particular that the badge is of Irish manufacture. The Congress authorities are anxious to make known this fact owing to unfounded statements to the contrary.

CABINET STILL UNDECIDED.

PREMIER SEES THE KING.

MEETING OF LIBERAL MINISTERS.

THE PRIME MINISTER saw the King at Buckingham Palace shortly after lunch yesterday. Mr. Macdonald was received by His Majesty at 1.55, and told the King of the latest developments in the general situation, both from the political and economic point of view. The audience lasted for an hour.

The general election problem remains unsettled, says the Press Association's Lobby correspondent, but the course of events continues to indicate the coming of an early election.

For an hour and a half last night the Cabinet discussed the situation at a meeting held in the Prime Minister's room at the House of Commons. No decision was reached.

There will be a further meeting of the Cabinet to-day.

After last night's Cabinet meeting Liberal Ministers held a meeting of their own. Apparently the Cabinet discussions revealed a situation so strongly in favour of an early appeal to the country that Liberal Ministers found it necessary immediately afterwards to meet together and examine their own position in greater detail.

A NON-PARTY APPEAL.

It is understood that the predominant view among members of the Cabinet was that there ought to be an election at the earliest possible moment, but that the appeal should be of such a description as to be unmistakably non-party. The precise nature of the appeal became a matter of vital importance.

The Liberal Ministers met to consider whether there was any possibility of reaching agreement with the Conservatives on the form of the appeal to be made in the event of the National Government going to the country.

The meeting of Liberal Ministers lasted for about an hour and a half. Presumably the results of the conference will disclose themselves in the attitude adopted by Lord Reading and Sir Herbert Samuel when the Cabinet again discusses the situation at to-day's meeting.

LIBERAL DIFFERENCES.

It is evident that the new developments have accentuated differences in Liberal ranks on the question of an election. The party has strongly opposed the early election proposal, and the suggestion current in the Parliamentary lobbies last night that Liberal Ministers were examining the possibilities of a "formula" which would enable them to support an early appeal to the country by the National Government caused surprise in many quarters and a certain amount of uneasiness in Liberal ranks.

OLYMPIC COUNCIL MEETING.

REPRESENTATION FOR HANDBALL.

FOUR PLAYERS FOR LOS ANGELES.

MR. J. J. KEANE, President of the Irish Olympic Council, occupied the chair at a meeting of the Council, which was held last night in Jury's Hotel, Dublin. Other members present included Mr. Hefferman, the Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Posts and Telegraphs; Mr. E. Solomons, honorary treasurer; Mr. J. J. Walsh, Senator M. F. O'Hanlon, Senator W. Oliver St. John Gogarty and Mr. T. Cassidy, T.D.

The delegates present were:—

N.A.C.A.—General E. O'Duffy, Dr. R. J. Rowlette, Mr. P. C. Moore.

I.A.B.A.—General W. R. E. Murphy, Mr. P. J. Kilcullen, Captain H. Cannon.

I.A.S.A.—Dr. J. Beckett, Messrs. H. F. Brennan and L. J. Hughes.

Army A.A.—Captain P. J. McKenna, Lieutenant J. A. Farren.

Mr. Keane, in opening the proceedings, said that in the four years which had elapsed since the Council had been formed they had been able to secure sufficient funds to have the Free State represented at Amsterdam by boxers, cyclists, swimmers and athletes. It is true that only one of their representatives had done anything exceptional, but, considering the conditions and the absence of proper facilities for training, owing to lack of finance, they had done very creditably, and Dr. O'Callaghan's success had done them honour.

Things were going on very well at the moment, and he had no doubt that the Free State would do much better at the next games. The balance sheet, which was adopted, showed total receipts of £2,512 5s. 2d. (of which £1,000 was a Government grant), and a total expenditure of £2,258 8s., with some minor outstandings liabilities, leaving a balance in hands of £201 12s. 2d.

The President, Honorary Treasurer, and Honorary Secretary were accorded votes of thanks on the conclusion of their terms of office.

On the submission of the draft constitution, it was decided to leave the consideration in detail to the new Council, which, according to one of the clauses, will consist of "a president, hon. secretary, hon. treasurer, and three delegates from each of the national associations which intend to enter individuals or teams for the Games. The Council will have power to co-opt as is thought fit.

Dr. Rowlette and Mr. Cassidy claimed extra representation for the N.A.C.A., which included both athletics and cycling.

General O'Duffy said that if he had been present at the meeting of the N.A.C.A. at which extra representation was claimed, he would have opposed it.

Senator Gogarty supported the claim. Cycling was a very strenuous form of athletics, and should get special representation.

General Murphy said the Boxing Association recognised the N.A.C.A. as the strongest body, but if they got four representatives that should be sufficient.

It was agreed to allow the N.A.C.A. four representatives.

Mr. Brennan suggested that co-option at a later stage would meet the matter, and they should not differentiate between Associations.

Mr. J. J. Walsh said that, when the new Council came to consider co-options, they should be more careful than in the past, and see that varying elements in the State were represented. If not, there might be unpleasantness.

General O'Duffy said that the sole consideration should be the interests of sport. No one should be co-opted because of his political views. Handball, he added, should be represented on the new Council. Provision was made for a demonstration of the game on the Olympic programme. They would probably send four players to Los Angeles. No financial burden would be put on the Olympic Council; the Handball Association would pay its own expenses.

It was unanimously decided that Handball be allowed representation on the new Council.

General O'Duffy expressed the hope that all that was best in the country would be represented on the new Council, and that no selections would be made because of political influence. He paid a tribute to the work of the outgoing President.

The athletic heart of Ireland was sound, he added, as had been proved to him since he became connected with the N.A.C.A. On the question of sport they should be united.

The new Council will be constituted when the various Associations select their representatives.

Father will be pleased with Bermaline Bread. —(Advt.)

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT

ECONOMY BILL ATTACKED.

OPPOSITION CAUSE A "SCENE."

"THE SPONGERS IN THE BACK STREETS."

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

WESTMINSTER, Tuesday.

INTEREST was rather outside than inside the House of Commons this afternoon, members being more desirous of hearing about election possibilities than listening to answers to questions, and the attendance was not very large.

There were no questions on the order paper addressed to the Prime Minister, and he was not present during the earlier part of the proceedings.

Members of the Opposition side of the House are very anxious regarding possible "profiteering" in foodstuffs, but Sir Philip Cunliffe Lister, President of the Board of Trade, in reply to Commander Kenworthy, said that no instructions were necessary to the Food Council to prevent "profiteering," and that the Government had received valuable assistance and co-operation from representatives of the trades concerned.

"NO BANKERS' RAMP."

The National Economy Bill was duly read a third time and sent to the House of Lords.

The third reading debate was opened by Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland, who said that this was no bankers' ramp, as some hon. members imagined. It was a matter of common knowledge that the bankers warned the late Government months before the actual crisis of what would be the consequences of the policy they were pursuing. Any Government faced with the present emergency was bound to take quick and decisive action if it was to be successful. Were they going to exaggerate points of difference or were they going to welcome and use the large measure of agreement in order to enable the country to face the future and to gain the enormous influence which it could have if they were united in shaping the new era on which the world had just entered?

Sir Stafford Cripps, the ex-Solicitor-General, in moving the rejection of the bill, said that they, on that side, opposed the measure root and branch. The proposals of the bill were sufficiently illogical before the abandonment of the gold standard, but now the very arguments advanced by the Government recoiled on their own heads. The one purpose of this emergency measure had been completely defeated by intervening circumstances, but the Government had stubbornly refused to reconsider its provisions.

LIKE THE MULE.

That attitude of mind recalled to him the characteristics of that stubborn and stupid animal, the mule (laughter), which was aptly described as having no pride of parentage and no hope in posterity. To put it colloquially, the Government wanted to go as far as they could in depressing the standard of living of the workers while the going was good. (Opposition cheers.)

The fact that there was a monetary crisis in the country did not necessarily call for panic legislation. There might be sound reasons for balancing the Budget, but the Budget deficit of the present year was a comparatively small matter. It was far more important that the debit in the trade balance should receive immediate attention than that measures should be rushed through to obtain a balance, not only this year, but next year.

"PRODUCING" A PANIC.

Proceeding, he said that one of the most vital factors of the standard of life was the maintenance of the scale of unemployment benefit. It had a powerful influence on the maintenance of wage levels. Capitalists, not only in this country, but abroad, had for years been anxious that unemployment benefit should be reduced, so that reductions in wages and salaries and social services might go forward according to plan. In this crisis they saw their opportunity (Opposition cheers), and they were not slow to take it.

If the right atmosphere of panic could be produced, the people, conceivably, might be persuaded to swallow these cuts as an act of patriotism without any realisation of their true significance. In that way the bulwarks set up by the Labour Party against any attack on the standard of life might be swept away in a frenzy of flag-waving.

DISORDERLY EPISODE.

Mr. Boothby, proceeding, said that Sir Stafford had not made a single constructive proposal. The speech was a very characteristic performance and illustrative of the sentimental claptrap which they had always associated with the official policy of the Labour Party as expounded on every soap box of the United Kingdom. (Laughter.)

Mr. Holford Knight, the Labour member for South Nottingham, who is one of the supporters of the Government, declared that the provisions in the bill were reasonable, considering the circumstances.

There were loud cries of dissent when the hon. member went on to speak of the abuse of unemployment benefit, and some degree of disorder when he said that, no doubt, in the election campaign, to which hon. members opposite were eagerly looking forward, they would range behind them all the spongers to be found in the back streets.

"SPONGERS."

Mr. Buchanan—As regards spongers, the hon. member was the best sponger in the late Government. (Opposition cheers.)

Mr. Holford Knight, proceeding, said the people who had the strongest feeling against these spongers were the genuine employed and unemployed.

Mr. Wm. Williams, referring to the "cut" in the salaries of M.P.'s, said that this was an attack upon democratic representation in Parliament, and Mr. Snowden himself had become part and parcel of a Tory plot to make it more difficult for Labour members to perform their duties.

Major Tryon, winding up for the Government, said that he did not know whether there would be an election, but obviously Labour members were practising their platform speeches. He complimented the Prime Minister and Mr. Snowden on the courageous stand they had made in trying to get the country out of its difficulties, and was giving his reasons for supporting them when a Labour member shouted: "You are welcome to them."

The division was taken at 7.30, when the bill was read a third time by 297 to 242.

In Committee of Supply.

Sir Henry Betterton moved a supplementary estimate for £13,700,000, which, he explained, was to meet the needs of the Unemployment Insurance Fund. But for the Economy Bill thirty millions would have been required.

THE KING'S RETURN TO LONDON.

LIST UNDER PRESSURE.

WEAK CLOSE.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

NEW YORK, Tuesday.

While the generally expressed opinion was that the market was acting well in face of unfavourable developments, sentiment was gloomy and the outlook obscure. Weakness on the Bond Market was a most unsettling factor.

The tendency at the opening was easy. The market fluctuated uncertainly with the erratic movements in foreign exchanges contributing to the unsettlement. Numerous pivotal issues early touched new low levels for the "bear" market, but steadiness in Rails resulted in rallying tendencies developing before prices again tapered off in dull trading.

Apparently still dominated by the uncertain situation abroad, the market continued unsettled. A long list of issues declined 1 to 4 points, while a few specialities broke widely. Rails, however, showed notable resistance.

The Bond Market was again under pressure, although the declines were rather more moderate than those of yesterday.

Steadiness in the sterling exchange was an encouraging feature, but the possibility of a general election taking place in Great Britain, together with advices that the Stockholm Stock Exchange was closed until further orders, and that the principal industrial bank in Rheims had closed its doors were disturbing factors.

Gold exports approximating 20,000,000 dollars made to-day have been the largest since June, 1928. The opinion was expressed that this substantial outflow of gold, which was anticipated, should have little effect on the Money Market at present.

Call money was a little easier, supplies being available outside the market at 1½ per cent. The declaration of the regular quarterly disbursement of one dollar, together with the usual yearly extra dividend of one dollar, by the American Can. Co. resulted in a short-lived rally; but selling predominated finally, and the market closed weak.

New York Consolidated Gas, General Electric, General Motors, Westinghouse Electric, Woolworth, Crucible Steel, United States Steel, North American, Western Union Telegraph, American Tobacco "B," Eastman Kodak, Case Threshing, and International Business Machines lost anything from 2 to 5 points; and Auburn Auto fell 11.

Government Bonds were easy. Railroad Bonds were steady.

The day's sales approximated 900,000 shares.

FIVE FAVOURITES SCORE AT LISTOWEL.

DOUBLES FOR MESSRS. ARNOTT AND O. T. SLOCOCK.

CROPPY QUEEN'S READY VICTORY.

DESPITE a breakdown in the long spell of dry weather during the morning hours yesterday, the attendance for the first day's racing at Listowel was better than on the corresponding day last year. The rain cleared off just as the horses were going to the post for the first race, and the remainder of the day was fine. Backers of favourites had a most successful time, and had the satisfaction of seeing their choice score on every occasion.

Captured Late won a hurdle race at the recent Limerick meeting with such ease that she was an automatic favourite for the Ladies' Plate, a hurdle race for maidens at the time of entry. The daughter of Captivation was always going easier than any of the others in the race, and, taking the lead approaching the last hurdle, she won in good style from Trigger Tricks and Twofold. The last-named met with no ill-luck, such as befell him at Limerick, but never looked like having a chance against Captured Late.

East Galway's appearance to take part in the Listowel Steeplechase aroused considerable interest, and Mr. Shepherd's good horse was followed by a big crowd as he made his way to the starting post. His task was not a very exacting one, as none of his three opponents had any pretensions to beat him at the scale of weights. He did cause the few backers who laid the long odds on him some moments of anxiety, however, when he propped himself at the jumps at times, but once Redcar was out of the fray, through having bolted at halfway, Mr. Shepherd's horse was never afterwards any way troubled. Kilbronan Pride, who was with him for a long way, fell at the last fence, and, being remounted, finished third.

OLD FELLA FALLS AGAIN.

Mr. Slocock, one of the few Curragh trainers with horses engaged, followed up the win of Captured Late by also saddling the winner of the Ballybunion Plate. This was Jack o' Glen, a son of Jackdaw of Rheims, who had finished second to Dusky Chief for the Turf Club Cup at the Curragh. His task here was an easier one, but he was not able to take any liberties with Flaherty's Best, who was running on well at the end of the race, and should gain a bracket before the meeting ends.

In a field of eleven runners for the Maiden Steeplechase Croppy Queen was always an odds-on favourite, and Mr. C. J. Wall's mare justified the confidence reposed in her by winning in a canter. There were many mishaps in the race, among the fallers being Old Fella, who, as at Limerick last week, was going really well when he came down. Safety Act was the only horse to complete the course, apart from the first three. Croppy Queen is trained by Mr. Arnott, who thus equalled Mr. Slocock's achievement of scoring a double event.

The sequence of backers' successes was completed when Opalia, starting a slightly better favourite than Priscilla Ann, won the Limerick City Plate. Details:—

AT NEWMARKET TO-DAY.

CALVADOS FANCIED IN OCTOBER HANDICAP.

ALTHOUGH only four of the entry for the October Handicap which is to be run at Newmarket to-day hold the Cesarewitch engagement, the race should prove to be a valuable trial for the big handicap. It is run over the last mile and a half of the Cesarewitch course, and one of the runners, Insurance, has been well backed for the big race.

Insurance has not had a public outing since he failed in the Ascot Stakes last June, but has undergone special preparation for the Cesarewitch. His connections are hopeful of success, and it will be interesting to see what progress the gelding has made.

Last year's winner of this race, Calvados, has done little to distinguish himself this year; for in his four outings this season he has never once looked like winning, and has not even gained one of the minor places. I hear, however, that he is coming on rapidly now, and is quietly fancied for this race. Before he won this race last year he had figured among the "also rans" on no fewer than six occasions.

Coster Boy runs for Lawson instead of Brantwood, and Manton reports lead me to expect an improved performance from him. Fireaway is fit, while Argonaute II. is not without a chance. Of the others, Buoyant Bachelor makes the most appeal, but Calvados is the selection.

In the absence of Rose en Soleil, an interesting contest should be seen for the Eighty-third Triennial Produce Stakes. Pickpocket is fit, but lacks speed. Pisa has a chance, but Links Tor, who ran very well in the Yorkshire Oaks at York, is the selection.

The biggest field of the day will turn out for the Linton Stakes. Hesperus, who ran well in Golden Hair colt's race at Sandown Park, is fancied, and will have the benefit of strong handling with B. Carslake in the saddle. Tableau is fit, while Sudan, hitherto known as The Sud, may prove the best of J. Jarvis's pair. Golden Pomona is on the up grade, but Hesperus is the selection.

The last event, the Apprentice Plate, is very open, and, since this type of race is rarely won by the "form" animal, it will not appeal to the careful speculator. Princetown, Broytoi, Saint Honore and Tel Sheria can be made out to have chances, and the vote goes to Saint Honore, who will be ridden by that promising apprentice, E. Quick.

F. Darling has decided not to run Cockpen in the Boscawen Stakes, and in his absence Pollux should have little difficulty in winning. Pollux is without doubt one of the best juveniles of the year, and would have given Cockpen a really good test. As it is, however, Pompier may be the one to trouble Pollux the most.

Dastur is, I hear, returning to his best form, and is well expected to win the Hopeful Stakes. Astronomer, who is also engaged in the Boscawen Stakes, runs here, and he has a useful reputation. Trivet has a chance, but my vote is for Holmwood, who was an easy winner at Warwick.

DODGER CONFIRMS FORM.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.
NEWMARKET, Tuesday Night.

It was one of the pleasantest autumn days here that could be imagined, the only drawback being a haze on the course.

The sales opened in the morning very weakly. There was only a small batch offered, and the majority were passed out unsold. For those that were knocked down only small prices in most cases were obtained.

If it was pleasant on the racecourse, it was quiet, for there was nothing in the programme over which one could muster up much enthusiasm. The racing began with a selling event, in which Strongbow, who it was thought once would be a good colt, was made favourite. But Strongbow has developed a pronounced dislike to racing. He would do nothing and was well beaten.

It was Lady Cunliffe-Owen's Elixir who made the running, and he was in front everywhere except just on the post, where Pachalik got up to beat him by a head. Once greatly fancied for a Lincolnshire, in which he was backed by his owner, who bought him in France, for a big stake, Pachalik has not been satisfactory horse. It looked as if he would pass out of the ring unsold after the race, but his trainer, C. Leader, bought him in finally for 21 guineas.

A WINNING COUPLE.

Dawson Waugh has nothing like the same number of good horses in his stable as he had when the late Sir Edward Hulton was his chief patron, and there were such as Straitlace and Soubriquet in the Somerville Lodge yard. It was an experience that has not happened to him so frequently of late to win two races in one afternoon, as he did now—the Great Eastern Handicap with Bargany and the Great Foal Stakes with Rose en Soleil.

Bargany was a good winner of what was regarded as an open race, for he won the handicap with two lengths to spare from Gift Horse. It was his third victory in succession, and he is evidently just now a smart performer, for he could evidently have won his race with about 7lb. more than the 8st. 5lb. that he carried. Bargany, Sister Clover and Poor Lad were joint favourites at 5 to 1, while Red Queen was only a half point longer.

Poor Lad ran a little below his Portland handicap form, and Sister Clover was never dangerous. Red Queen only arrived on the scene late, and she could only get within half a length of the second, Lady Rosebery's Gift Horse. Icarus went such a pace for the first furlong and a half that he carried most of them off their legs.

AN EASY VICTORY.

Rose En Soleil won the Great Foal Stakes readily easily, beating St. George by three lengths. It was decided not to run this colt in the St. Leger, and the Scarborough Stakes, which he won, was chosen instead as his race at Doncaster. He was giving 5lb. to St. George and receiving 5lb. from Doctor Dolittle, who only finished fourth.

Doctor Dolittle has run some good and some bad races this season, but this time his performance was not without good points, and Mr. Persse, who fancied him a good deal for the Derby, should be able to get a good race before the end of the season. He was taken out of the Cambridgeshire, and is not in any of the important handicaps, the entries for which have appeared, but he has several nice weight-for-age engagements, some of which he can fulfil.

TARTE MAISON SCORES.

John Beary will be returned as the trainer of Tarte Maison, who won the Buckenham stakes for the Aga Khan, but his acquaintance with the filly has lasted barely twenty-four hours; for she only went to his place at Elsheud from Whatcombe on Sunday, and was sent to Newmarket yesterday. The daughter of Tetratema had run well at Newbury, and she was fancied a good deal to beat Nippy Shillingsworth. She beat the Duke of Portland's chestnut filly with the greatest ease, finishing two lengths and a half in front of her, Padishah dividing the pair.

No fewer than three of the six races which were run (in the seventh Prince Paradise was indulged with a walk over) were for two-year-olds. One of them, a selling affair, was won by Lord Lonsdale with Leicester Lane, one of the few he has had trained for him by Douglas Pickering. Lord Lonsdale never buys the winner of a selling plate, but this one returned to his old stable; for there was no advance on the entered selling price of £300.

The third two-year-old race was the October Nursery, and here Mr. D. S. Kennedy and his trainer, Thrale, had a consolation prize for the narrow defeat of Hitsichin in the Newbury Cup on Saturday, when Dodger made virtually all the running and beat Iron Ration by three lengths. This very useful gelding had always been in the best two when second to Brassie at Newbury last week. Dodger's sire, Flaming Orb, I remember as having won races for the late Mr. Kennedy Jones before he was sold to go to India, and subsequently returned to stand in Ireland.

ELECTIONS.

I cannot see that there is likely to be much improvement in the quality of the racing here to-morrow, when the 83rd Triennial Stakes should be won by PISA, who has Links Tor to beat.

If POLLUX has shaken off his habit of taking a slow beginning he should win the Doncawen Stakes, for he does not appear to have much to beat.

HOLMWOOD, having struck winning form again after his lapse at York, should win the Hopeful Stakes; while in the Newmarket October Handicap I must give a chance to BEDDING FAVOUR to beat the Cesarewitch horse, Argonaute II., and Insurance.

AGA KHAN'S HORSES.

TRAINING AND RIDING ARRANGEMENTS.

The following horses owned by the Aga Khan left for Newmarket yesterday, to be trained by Frank Butters:—Mostelle, Pomme Api, Taj Kasra, Buland Shar, Firdaussi, Nooz, and Udaipur.

Horses which will be trained for the Aga Khan by John Beary at Tilshead are:—Taj Din, Pickpocket, Becti, Jacques Emile Blanche, Tarte Maison, Moti Mia, Indian Salmon, Far and Sure, Turtle Soup, Sultan Prince, Mah Mahal, Fateh Singh, Isfandiar, Bushirawan, Farmood, and others, about twenty in all.

Mr. Beary will ride as first jockey to the Aga Khan next season, second claim on his services being held by Prince Aly Khan.

TO REMAIN AT WHATCOMBE.

Owned in partnership by the Aga Khan and Mr. Dawson, Vamos and Asuncion still remain with Mr. R. C. Dawson at Whatcombe for the present. Mr. Dawson said yesterday that they will probably be put up for sale. Vamos has been well supported for the Cambridgeshire, in which his weight is 8st. 11lb. Last time out he won the Richemount Stakes at Hurst Park easily, beating some smart three-year-olds.

GREYHOUND RACING.

GRAND NATIONAL SEMI-FINALS.

EMIR BEY AND HARWIG SUCCESSFUL.

THE semi-final round of the Irish Greyhound Grand National proved a big attraction last night at Harold's Cross Park. Emir Bey and Harwig were the respective winners, and both gave excellent displays of jumping. Emir Bey won the first semi-final by six lengths from Nirvagha, the favourite, Friend in Need, running in a most disappointing fashion.

Harwig, who holds the time record for the track, was always odds-on, and for a time it looked as if his kennel companion, Markham's Cross, was going to win, but going round the last bend Harwig took the lead, and eventually crossed the line three and a half lengths to the good.

The competitors for the final, which will be run on Friday night, are Emir Bey, Harwig, Nirvagha and Markham's Cross, and a really good race is assured. Details :—

Closing of Entries.

Entries close to-day for the Proudstown Park and Naas meetings.

The Aga Khan's Winner.

Tarte Maison, the property of the Aga Khan, who was one of the horses removed from Whatcombe during the week-end to be trained by J. Beary, won the Buckenham (Post Produce) Stakes at Newmarket yesterday in very easy style. The daughter of Tetratema, who was ridden by Michael Beary, brother of the trainer, will return to Tilshead to be trained for future engagements. This was not the first winner turned out by John Beary for the Indian potentate, as Bibi Tella, who has been under his charge for some time, has won three races out of seven attempts this season.

Captain A. S. Wills's Horses.

Captain A. S. Wills, a member of the celebrated millionaire tobacco firm, is sending five horses to Newmarket to be trained by Fred Butters. Sir Geladale (4 years), and Duncan Stewart (2 years) have already arrived. They will be followed by Pharacre, one of the best two-year-olds in training; Air Pocket (3 years) and Spinnaker (4 years). Fred Butters is a younger brother of Frank, formerly private trainer for Lord Derby, and now trainer for the Aga Khan. Captain Wills is decreasing his racing interests. A number of yearlings bred by him will go up for sale at Newmarket to-day.

NEW WORLD'S RECORDS.

PARIS, Tuesday.

Motor cycle records for all categories were broken by an English rider at the Montlhery track to-day, when C. W. Lacey, driving a Norton of 500 c.c., covered one hundred miles in 54 mins. 8.36 secs., beating the previous record, 58 mins. 50.79 secs. by 4 mins. 42.43 secs. Continuing his attempt Lacey also broke the record for an hour's riding, covering 178.317 kilometres (approximately 111 miles). The previous record for the hour was 164.115 kilometres, and Lacey thus comfortably beat this figure by nearly nine miles.

GOLF.

IRISH LADIES' ORDEAL.

WIND AND RAIN AT ROSSES POINT. THE STRUGGLE AT GANTON.

FANCIED PLAYERS DEFEATED.

THE LAST EIGHT FOR THE IRISH TITLE.

BY OUR GOLF CORRESPONDENT.
SLIGO, Tuesday Evening.

It was something more than a test of golf at Rosses Point to-day. Physical fitness played as big a part in it as the quality of the golf, and, at the end of a wild day, in which wind and rain played havoc with the best intentioned of shots, one slightly-built bedraggled little figure wended her way from the nineteenth hole to the clubhouse to hand in the official result. Miss Sherlock, much the youngest of the eight survivors, was dormy three in her third round match with Miss Betty Gardiner, but she lost each of the remaining holes of the round to 2, 5 and 5—capital golf into the teeth of that howling wind. Drenched though, she had to go to the nineteenth, but she won the hole for the match in a five. Miss Gardiner pulling her drive, topping her second, fluffing her third, and took four to reach the green.

Another Hermitage player, in Miss Pentony, won the last match of the day, and brought the total number of Leinster players left in to half-a-dozen, the one representative of Ulster being Miss Joan Mitchell, of Castlerock, while Munster had Miss Latchford, of Tralee.

THE BIG FEATURE.

It was a remarkable day's golf, the big feature being the defeat of the holder, Mrs. Walker, in the morning by Miss Ellis, the young lady from Royal County Down. It followed hot-foot on the overthrow of Miss Dorothy Pim by Mrs. Kidd, of Dun Laoghaire and in the evening, Miss Daisy Ferguson also went out, beaten 3 and 2 by Miss May Fitzgibbon, the left-handed player from Greystones, while Miss Ellis got no further, Mrs. Todd, of Kilkenny, putting her out, the margin being 4 and 2. It is still a very open championship, and, should the prevailing boisterous weather continue to the end, anything may occur; but in such conditions Mrs. Kidd's powerful game would likely get her through.

The match in the fourth round, in the morning, between Mrs. Kidd and Mrs. Todd, will have a distinct bearing on the destination of the title; as a matter of fact, it looks as if either is destined to win it, although, as we have seen to-day, it is rather unwise to attempt to indulge in prophecy.

I do not propose to criticise the golf—indeed, it would be manifestly unfair to do so—but, perhaps, the most convincing golf of the whole day was played by Mrs. Kidd, whose long drives and second shots into the wind on the way in was one of the salient features. Mrs. Todd also stood up to the elements in grand style, and not a little credit is due of Miss Sherlock and Miss Pentony, who have done splendidly, despite their lack of experience of this class of golf.

The turning point of the match between Mrs. Walker and Miss Ellis was, perhaps, the seventh hole. There Mrs. Walker placed her second short of the burn. Although Miss Ellis found the burn through going all out for the green, she won the hole.

Neither Miss Pim nor Mrs. Kidd played good golf in the morning; but Mrs. Kidd, who hit some remarkably long balls, was never in arrears.

A GREAT RECOVERY.

One of the best recoveries of the whole day was effected by Miss Latchford in her match with Mrs. Briscoe, who was four up at the ninth, but lost the match through her weak approaching into the wind by two holes.

IMPORTANT CHANGES IN THE RULES.

Two important alterations to the rules of golf, to come into effect to-day, were made at the business meeting of the Royal and Ancient Club at St. Andrew's yesterday, when Sir Ralph Anstruther, Bart., the senior captain, presided.

An alteration to Rule No. 28, Section 1, regarding the removal of impediment on the putting green is :

"Any loose impediment may be removed from the putting green by hand or with the club, irrespective of the position of the player's ball."

Hitherto a player was permitted to remove any impediments from the putting green only by hand.

The alteration to Sections 2 and 3 of the same rule is :

"In removing any loose impediment the club must not be laid with more than its own weight upon the ground; nor must anything be pressed down either with the club or in any other way."

The autumn meeting of the club will be held to-day, when four trophies, the gold medal, Queensland, Silver Boomerang, and the George Glennie medal will be contested. Mr. J. Beaumont Pease, the captain elect, will play himself into office by driving off a ball at 7.50 a.m. Mr. Pease succeeds the Duke of York as captain of the Royal and Ancient Club.

LICENSED GROCERS' AND VINTNERS' G.S.

The cup presented by Mr. Bertram T. O'Reilly, Chairman, Messrs. John Power and Sons, Ltd., was played for at Hermitage, and won by J. Cormack with a score of 145 for 36 holes. M. Kennedy and P. Hogan tied for second place with 147, the latter winning the toss. Best nett, M. Kennedy, the first 18 holes. Best nett, second round, Geo. Doyle. T. Clarke won the prize for the long handicap players.

Mr. Bertram O'Reilly, donor of the cup, was entertained to dinner by the members.

PROBABLE ENGLISH FINALISTS.

THE YOUNGER SCHOOL DISAPPEARING.

GANTON, Tuesday.

As the young aspirants for the English ladies' title disappear one by one at Ganton, everything points to a final between Miss Molly Gourlay, who won the title in 1929, and Miss Wanda Morgan, who holds the records of most of the Kent courses, and who this year contested the final of the British championship at Portmarnock. These two players stood out conspicuously in the third and fourth rounds played here today, Miss Gourlay defeating Mrs. Walter Payne, formerly Miss Phyllis Lytton, another Surrey golfer, and Miss Cradock-Hartopp, a Derbyshire golfer, without going further than the fourteenth hole.

Miss Morgan won each of her matches by 5 and 4, disposing of Miss Pauline Doran, the girl champion, in the fourth round by producing golf which was unbeatable. She went out in 38, one under bogey; was four up, and lost only one hole, the eleventh, where her short game was weak.

In this game the girl champion was unable to reproduce the form which had brought about the overthrow of Mrs. Guedalla, the former winner, earlier in the day. Miss Doran had played her long game beautifully in that match, but she was erratic near the green. She found Mrs. Guedalla playing anything but well with her wooden clubs, and she fought an uphill match well to beat the ex-English champion. Against Miss Morgan, Miss Doran was too frequently exploring the rough to make a fight of it.

A REMARKABLE FINISH.

Among the survivors is Miss Diana Esmond, a former girl champion, and daughter of the well-known racehorse owner. She brought about one of the surprises of the day when she beat Mrs. Percy Garon, who had beaten Miss Diana Fishwick, in the fourth round, after having disposed of Miss Doreen Snook, the Notts champion, in the fourth stage. Miss Esmond had a remarkable finish to her game, for she was all-square with eight to play, and won the eleventh, twelfth, fourteenth and fifteenth in 4, 3, 4, 4, and was level fours when she won by 4 and 3.

Miss M. Wragg, a Yorkshire player, qualified to meet Miss Gourlay in the next round, but she had a narrow escape when, after being five up at the ninth, she lost the next four holes to Lady Alness, who eventually was beaten at the sixteenth. In the fourth round Miss Wragg kept her head in a crisis to get through her match with Mrs. Wood, of Manchester. She went out in 36 and was two up and three up at the twelfth. At the thirteenth her caddie moved a divot, and she conceded the hole rather than dispute a debatable point.

Other survivors of the day's play were Miss Livingstone, of Burhill; Miss Elsie Corlette, a Northerner; Miss R. Leetham, of Harrogate, and Miss Rudgard, of York.

THIRD ROUND RESULTS.

Mrs. W. H. Wood (Manchester) beat Miss P. Reed (Minehead)—4 and 2.
Miss Mabel Wragg (Sheffield and District) beat Lady Alness (Harrogate)—3 and 2.

Mrs. Clarke (Hayling) beat Miss M. Johnson (Hornsea)—3 and 1.
Miss B. M. Brown (Formby) beat Miss P. Lobbett (North Hants)—3 and 2.
Miss R. Leetham (Harrogate) beat Miss D. Plumpton (Frinton-on-Sea)—6 and 5.

Miss Pauline Doran (North Surrey) beat Mrs. Herbert Guedalla (Walton Heath)—3 and 2.
Miss Wanda Morgan (Westgate-on-Sea) beat Miss K. Ollier (North Manchester)—5 and 4.

FOURTH ROUND.

BADMINTON.

IRISH "CLOSE" TO BE REVIVED.

LOSS OF GREAT DOUBLES PAIR.

Many Dublin clubs begin practice this week-end, and, with the new headquarters hall at Elm Park available, the Irish season promises great interest. Two international matches are due to be played away, Wales being opposed at Llandudno on December 4th, and Scotland at Glasgow in January. The most important fixture of the season, however, that against England, will be played at Elm Park on February 5th, the Friday of the All-Ireland Championship week.

The great Irish players, G. S. B. Mack and J. F. Devlin, are finished with international badminton. Mack has definitely retired, having requested that he shall not be considered for the national team, as his work prevents him from keeping up to international form. He has also resigned his place

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

TONE AND COMMENT

DUBLIN IRREGULAR.

FREE STATE FUNDS STRONG.

There was a good deal of irregularity on Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday, but generally the tendency was downwards. There was no doubt about the rise in Free State Funds, but it did not extend to British issues, which gave way rather sharply in some cases. There was a rise of 1¼ in Second National Loan and two points in Third Loan. Elsewhere prices gave way. Dublin 5 p.c. Red. Stock was 3½ lower at 100, and Dublin Port 5 p.c. lost a point at 99. Bank Stock was 3 lower at 334. Great Southern Guar. lost a point at 35. Guinness Units were a weak market all day, and finally lost 3s. 3d. at 87s. 3d.

All the Industrials lost ground, except Sewing Cottons, which repeated the last price. None of the falls was severe, and in the present state of the markets most of them may be recovered to-day. Nothing is stable at the moment, and anything like stability need not be looked for until British policy has been fully developed.

Locally, there were few dealings. Thom's Ord. Shares rose 1s. on the repetition of the interim dividend of sixpence per share. Findlater Prefs. improved, and Parkes Pref. came to business at 12s.

LONDON EASIER.

GERMAN BONDS SLUMP.

Although there was quite a fair volume of business passing in the London Stock Markets generally yesterday, it was apparent that the adoption of cash dealings has largely eliminated the speculative element, so that the wildly exciting scenes witnessed recently are now a thing of the past, and thus markets will have the chance of settling down to more normal conditions sooner than would have been the case. Easier conditions were apparent in most directions, while here and there outstanding weak markets developed. One of the weakest features was the further sharp set back in Swedish Match issues following foreign selling, while German Bonds dropped back heavily at the close, the Sevens finishing nearly ten points back at 52, while the 5½ per cent. lost 6 points at 38.

British funds moved in uncertain manner; for, following a firm commencement, they developed an easier tendency, but strengthened again towards the end. The final quotations showed fractional improvements in a number of directions, whilst in the majority of instances the overnight values were repeated. India stocks showed no material variation, but certain of the Australian issues recovered a part of the previous day's losses. Foreign Government Stocks displayed considerable irregularity. German Bonds, as mentioned above, dropped back heavily, and Brazilians, French Fives, and Czecho-Slovakia Bonds were other dull markets. Chinese, on the other hand, displayed an improving tendency, and Greek Sevens scored an appreciable advance. The firmer conditions which ruled in British Railways on the previous day were not maintained yesterday, and all the leaders suffered fractional recessions, while a number of the junior stocks went back. Colonial and Foreign Railways were irregular; for, while the Argentine issues improved, Canadian Pacifics and Grand Trunks went off all along the line. American Railways also registered lower values all round.

Decidedly easier conditions developed in the Industrial sections, and the vast majority of the movements shown among these descriptions were of an adverse character, with several outstanding weak markets. In other direction Oils dropped away on the lack of support, while Mines also fell away, and Rubbers eased in sympathy with the lower values returned in Mincing lane.

THE INDUSTRIAL MARKET.

SWEDISH GROUP AGAIN WEAK.

Dull and unsettled conditions prevailed in most sections of the Industrial market yesterday, and the tendency remained uncertain pending further developments. Brokers reported a fair turnover in some of the leading shares, but the adoption of cash dealings caused a certain amount of hesitation. International presented a weak appearance, particularly the Swedish issues, which were subject to considerable forced liquidation from the Continent. Elsewhere Imperial Chemicals suffered a set-back. The interim dividend decision is expected to-morrow.

Iron and Steel descriptions were mostly easier, though here and there fresh supporting orders came to hand during the afternoon. South Durhams were inquired for and rose 1s. to 21s., with buyers also in evidence for Stewarts Deferred and John Brown.

Apart from Rolls-Royce, little disposition was seen to support Motor shares. Fords reflected American advices and weakened further to 1⅞, while Leylands receded to 1⅛ and Thomas Tilling to 2½.

The Unilever issues met with a certain amount of selling, and both finished ⅛ down, the English shares at 1⅛ and the Dutch at 1⅛. Tate and Lyle fell 1s. to 37s., Schweppes Deferred ⅛ to £1, and Liebigs ¼ to 9½. Home and Colonial were finally unchanged at 13s. 9d., but International Tea and Maypole lost 3d. at 20s. and 4s. respectively.

Textiles made another mixed showing. Whitworth and Mitchell received moderate support, and a few buyers came forward for Listers, but Bleachers, J. and P. Coats, Calico Printers, Fine Spinners, Linen Thread and Sewing Cottons all lost ground, the last-named reacting ¼ to 1⅛.

Rayons generally lost ground. Courtaulds gave way 9d. to 35s. 6d., with the Celanese group also on offer, Canadian Celanese weakening to 1½ and American Celanese Common to 1⅛. Snia Viscosa were finally offered at 6s. 3d.

With few exceptions, Breweries were subject to a certain amount of forced liquidation. Final prices in some cases were slightly above the lowest. Courage Ordinary proved one of the weakest spots, with a decline of 3s. at 41s., while Guinness lost 2s. 6d. at 87s. 6d. Bass Ratcliff gave way to 52s., Benskins to 28s., Hoare Ordinary to 42s., and South African Breweries Ordinary to 57s. Watney Deferred finished at 36s. 3d., after 36s. On the other hand, Distillers headed to 52s. 9d., and Allsopp Ordinary to 20s. 3d.

The Tobacco leaders presented a heavy appearance for the most part. "Imps" slipped back to the extent of ⅛ to 3⅛, with Carreras "A" marked down ¼ to 3½. Gallahers declined a similar fraction at 1¼. "Bats" lost the turn at 4⅛, and "Cantabs" shed 6d. at 41s. 6d., the latter following the dividend statement. Some of the Preference issues were again on offer.

With New York in uncertain mood, the Trans-Atlantic counters trended towards lower levels, and finished with a weak appearance in the late dealings. Brazilian Traction Common lost 1¼ at 12, with Radio Corp. offered at 18. Woolworths were comparatively steady at 39s. 6d.

Cables and Wireless stocks continued on the down grade, the Preference closing at 44½, the "A" Ordinary at 12½, and the "B" Ordinary at 9d. Canadian Marconi Marines held around 32s. 6d.

Among Gramophone shares, "Emmies" were an uncertain market at 21s. 3d.

In the Cinema section, Gaumont-British Ordinary reacted to 9s. 7½d., with British International on offer at 4s. 9d.

The general trend among Bank shares was adverse. Insurance shares also lost ground.

Steady selling depressed the price of Imperial Chemicals, the Ordinary being finally 1s. down at 14s. The Preference and Deferred gave way 3d. to 18s. 3d. and 3s. 6d., respectively. Dunlops closed unchanged at 15s. 6d., after being 15s. 9d., but Turner and Newall receded 6d. to 27s., United Molasses 6d. to 8s. 3d., and Finlays ⅛ to 2½. The abandonment of the gold standard by Sweden was responsible for a further sharp marking down of the Swedish issues. Kreuger and Toll dropped 1⅞ to 5¼, the Debentures 2½ to 7¼, and Swedish Match "B" 1¼ to 4⅞. These were about the lowest prices touched during the day.

OIL SHARES LOWER.

Speculation in Oil shares has been checked by the fact that dealings are now solely for cash. Consequently, quiet conditions again prevailed in the market yesterday, and a generally dull tendency prevailed.

The real cause of the weakness which developed in shares such as Royal Dutch and Shells was traceable to selling on Amsterdam account, where speculators have been badly hit by the fall in shares of Swedish companies, and have been compelled to realise on other securities in order to finance their operations. Actually, the volume of selling from the Continent was not large, but it certainly outweighed the demand which existed locally, while there was an unwillingness to take the stock offered from Amsterdam. Therefore, the declines which occurred were out of proportion to the volume of sales effected.

RUBBER SHARES DULL.

Extremely quiet conditions again characterised the Rubber Share Market, and, with public interest practically non-existent, and in view of the further contraction in raw material quotations, share values were again marked to lower levels in a number of directions. Anglo-Dutch went off rather sharply, losing 1s. 3d. to 12s. 3d., while Highlands at 10s. showed a similar decline. Rubber Trusts finished no better than 12s. 9d., at which a loss of 1s. 9d. was shown, while Malayalam and Telogoredjo were both 6d. lower. Idle conditions also ruled in the commodity market, and values opened easier and receded further during the day. Spot and October went from 2⅛d. to 2¼d. per lb., January to March from 3⅛d. to 3d. per lb., and April to June from 3¼d. to 3⅛d. per lb.

FERRANTI FIRST

FERRANTI entered into the production of Radio Sets and Speakers after careful consideration and research.

Whatever they produce must be true to the traditions they have kept alive for nearly half a century in the production of electrical apparatus of merit.

In the range of All-Electric Radio now offered, the FERRANTI traditions are maintained, and the workmanship, reliability and performance of these productions set a high standard.

Each component is designed or chosen for the purpose it is to fulfil. Each component is manufactured from selected raw material. Nothing is left to chance. Every inch of wire, for example, is tested before it passes to the Coil Winder. Every coil, every manufactured part, is examined for flaws and tested for defects before it is passed forward for the next operation. The position of every component in the Set is determined by experiment, measurement and test.

Step by step, in the course of manufacture and as assembly proceeds, the components and the Receiver are tested so that everything is as flawless as we can make it. And, finally, the Receiver is submitted to tests to satisfy the examiners that it is O.K. from Aerial to output, that the overall amplification is up to standard, and that hum and distortion are reduced to the small limits allowed.

That is why the FERRANTI Receiver is so good. The taking of pains in the construction of an intricate piece of apparatus—a car, a watch or a radio set—costs money, but the best is invariably the most satisfactory in the long run.

ESCAPE FROM BURNING TRAWLER.

Random Thoughts Provoked by The Show.

By Our Radio Correspondent.

Mr. M. R. Heffernan, Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister for Posts and Telegraphs, has, as a result of his speech at the Dublin Mansion House a few days ago, cleared the air of many rumours which were inclined to impede the development of radio in the Free State. He has assured us that the Government have no intention of abandoning their scheme for the erection of a high-power station in the vicinity of Athlone. This assurance should help us to appreciate to what extent radio will have developed before another twelve months have passed. We can only hope that the difficulties which have been experienced in obtaining a suitable site for the station will soon be surmounted. It is impossible to over-estimate the importance of a central high-power station when we consider broadcasting. This country is at present very inadequately served. The Dublin and Cork Stations covering, as they do, a very small part of the country, it is impossible to develop anything like a general public enthusiasm in the service. Given a high-power station, however, it should be possible in a very few months to enrol as many as 100,000 listeners in the Free State. The revenue from licence fees alone should thus go a long way towards paying the running costs of the service.

Mr. Heffernan said that he would not be surprised if the opening ceremony at next year's Dublin Exhibition was put on the air from the new high-power station. Let us hope he is right.

A WORD FOR THE CRYSTAL SET.

In these days of so-called enlightenment we rarely hear of the humble crystal set. It seems to have no place in the Dublin radio dealers' scheme of things. This, I am convinced, is all wrong. Many an enthusiastic listener obtained his first introduction to broadcasting by way of the crystal set. These sets are cheap, and confine their owners to the local station. But what of it? It is, I suggest, better to have a man listening to his local station than not listening at all! It seems strange that so few firms cater for the poor man. It is not everybody who can pay the few pounds demanded for a valve set, no matter how we try to persuade ourselves to the contrary. Even the easy-payment system does not appeal to everyone. No; I think that the crystal set is far too much neglected. The coming of the high-power station will restore it to favour, and it will once again, no doubt, be the means of starting many thousands of people on the road to an enjoyment of all that broadcasting is capable of giving them.

ORGANISATION AND PROGRESS.

Despite the fact that we are without a high-power station, I do not think that our existing possibilities are half-developed. There is no department of the broadcasting service whose job it is to recruit new listeners. The service is, by reason of its limitations, unable to expand. It all boils down to the question of finance. The department is not self-contained and has no spending power. This is one of its big difficulties. It is hard to know how matters could be improved without upsetting the Civil Service system, but it is becoming more and more obvious that, if the service is ever to do the big things of which it is capable, it must needs possess greater powers to develop in its own way, unhindered by restrictions imposed by other Government departments. This is a problem which will have to be faced by Government some time or another, and, although it may be argued that this is not the best time to consider such a problem, it would seem better to do so before the high-power station is working, when new problems will undoubtedly present themselves for solution.

The Dublin and Cork Stations need advertisement, not only among the listening public, but among that bigger public which is largely ignorant of broadcasting. That is a task which confronts the authorities, and one which would, I feel sure, if carried out in a whole-hearted manner, be not so difficult or expensive as it now may seem.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN.

There are quite a few foreign receivers to be seen at the Dublin Radio Exhibition—America predominating. These sets have been referred to in many English journals as "the American menace" to British sets. Good as many of them are, they do not, after all, constitute such a menace as we were led to believe. They are undoubtedly cheap, and are mostly good value for the money, but the modern British receiver need not hang its head in shame. British prices may be slightly higher, but manufacture is every whit as good. The Americans have, however, been the first people to market the console type of receiver. I write subject to correction, but I think this type of receiver was popular in the United States some three years ago. British manufacturers have merely copied a good design when they saw it. German apparatus is more or less in the same boat as the British, so far as design is concerned. Prices here are reasonable also. It would take a very wise man to conduct a visitor to the manufacturer who sold the "cheapest and best" set exhibited. All receivers to be seen at the Mansion House are cheaper and better this year than they were last year. That is no over-statement. It is a sober fact.

PROGRAMMES AND SALES.

It is surprising the amount of detail some listeners manage to cram into their criticism of the Dublin programmes. These criticisms, I might add, are anything, at times, but reasoned. I came in contact with many people at the Show who seemed to be saving their criticisms up for a twelve-month. They then burst forth in mighty gushes, and sometimes envelop themselves! Comparisons were bandied about like shuttlecocks, and the million-pound B.B.C. was compared to the studio in the G.P.O. buildings to the detriment of the latter! But what can one do with such people? One can talk and reason with them, and usually it is possible to get them to see some sense. That is the job of a propagandist, no doubt, and it would be a very good idea if the Minister for Posts and Telegraphs took steps to enrol every person engaged in the radio trade as propagandists. It would be a good stroke of business on his part! But to get back to the question of programmes. The Dublin and Cork Stations have their regular circle of listeners, as well as that wider circle of listeners who are not regular. These latter people have the habit of listening to, say, a symphony concert from London, then switching over to 2 RN., where they may happen to hear a fiddler playing some folk music. They switch off in disgust, forgetting that radio listening requires every bit as much—perhaps more—discrimination as does playgoing. Comparisons, odious as they are, will continue to be made. But listeners should remember that, while Irish broadcasting may not be the best in the world, neither is it the worst. It has its "on" and "off" times like other things. It has, however, an important place in our national scheme of things, and if we cannot always give it praise, let us try to give it sympathy and, if at all possible, understanding. We will then be in a better position to get the best out of it.

To-Day's Wireless Programmes.

ROMANCE OF A GREAT ORCHESTRA.

This afternoon at 3.30 the last symphony concert of the summer season will be broadcast through the North Regional and National Stations from the Pavilion, Bournemouth. The concert will be given by the Bournemouth Municipal Augmented Orchestra, under the conductorship of Sir Dan Godfrey. Irish listeners have already derived great enjoyment from Sir Dan Godfrey's conductorship of the Bournemouth Orchestra, and this last concert of the season affords an opportunity to congratulate him on reaching another mile stone in his distinguished musical career. Bournemouth is now a music centre without rival on the coasts of the British Isles, but it started in the most obscure way, with a scratch crew of military players, under the leadership of a young man, Bandmaster Godfrey.

Sir Dan Godfrey.

With this material, and the laudable co-operation of the municipal authorities, the present famous orchestra has been evolved. The enthusiastic conductor gained his highest reward in 1922 when he was knighted for his services to music. This afternoon's concert will last until approximately 4.45. The promenade concert, conducted by Sir Henry Wood, at the Queen's Hall, London, is also on the North Regional to-night at 8 o'clock. The programme will consist of the music of Bach. Another good feature from the same station is a comedy in one act, "Rosemary," by Rowland Cragg, which includes a strong cast, supported by the Northern Studio Orchestra.
